Your Eyesight.

You surely do not wish to begin your life's work handicapped by poor eyesight. If your eyes ache or cause you any inconvenience when you are reading or studying, there is a cause for it. Even though it should be slight, better have me examine your eyes, and if necessary, supply glasses. Scientifically fitted glasses correct defective vision, and make reading a comfort.

I devote my whole time to optical work and have the latest appliances to aid me in it and the only complete lense grinding plant in the Maritime Provinces.

EDITORIALS

THE term that has just closed has witnessed many changes and reforms at Dalhousie, but none more extensive and radical than the re-organization of the Students' Council of the University. The drafting of a new Constitution for the Council was no easy task, and those who voluntarily assumed the responsibility and put their shoulders to the wheel are deserving of a little more credit than their fellow students have up to the time of writing, seen fit to allow them. It was a thankless task but someone had to do it and now it's done. We are free to admit that our new Constitution is not perfection, and no sane person would expect that it would be utopian at the start. It is merely a working basis for future development, and crude as it may now be, all must admit that it is a decided improvement on the rather antiquated student government we had prior to 1912. Responsible government will now be in vogue at Dalhousie. Every twenty-five students are entitled to one member in the Council. The governing body so chosen are to have full control of student affairs, and may, if they so desire, demand from any student society or organization an account of its stewardship. Further than this we cannot now say. It is our wish, however, that the reorganized Council may grow to be a real live factor in student life, that it may supply both a governing and unifying force at Dalhousie and may tend to better student affairs along the lines where improvement is needed, and in some cases needed very badly. The credit for bringing about the new state of affairs belongs for the most part to a few men who are no longer undergraduates. It remains for those who follow to complete the task. A difficult one it is, but it can be done. Will you do it?

SOME weeks ago the Cornwall Football Team, our conquerers in last year's league, presented our Athletic Club with a picture of their 1911 aggregation of Rugby experts. The group was neatly framed and appropriately inscribed, and in addition each member of the fifteen had signed his name either above or below his likeness. The result is something new in team pictures and makes a very attractive ornament for Dalhousie's uniquely plastered walls. This thoughtful and sportsmanlike action on the part of our friends and late foes (in one sense of the word), the "sailor boys" bears out the impression they left with us last year, that they were good ball players and better sports. "Thanks ever so much," is all we can say to the jovial seamen. We might merely mention, however, that in our private opinion (you may take it for what it's worth) the short, and, to put it mildly, the rather meteoric flight of the Cornwall's team through the Halifax Football League, will, and should, be fraught with very necessary lessons to all parties concerned. Whether we like it or not we Dalhousians must admit that the Cornwall rooters showed ours some pointers in the fine art of cheering on their team, (perhaps they had more chance than we had, but let that go). Furthermore, our players would do well to copy their late opponents, both as to their clean, fair and scientific playing and also in the way they take a victory (or defeat if need be). Pray excuse us if we seem to preach. It's the truth anyway. But our intention in starting was to convey Dalhousie's thanks to the "sailor boys" for the picture. We've done it so we'll stop.

IN the April issue of the Gazette we published a reference to Mr. Douglas Graham, of the Class of 1913 in Law, which may have seemed to some to refer detrimentally to that gentleman's standing as a student, in that he was referred to as "Mr. R. Douglas Graham, Law '13 (?)". The Editor takes this means of apologizing to Mr. Graham for the slur which we seemingly cast upon his standing in his classes. So far as we know and can learn his record as a student is a very good one. altho' he has been handicapped to a very great extent by ill-health. The reference in question was made more or less thoughtlessly, we admit, but there was no evil intent or malice attached, and we trust that this apology and explanation will tend to remove any wrong impressions or ill feeling to which our words may have given rise. Like everyone else we are liable to make mistakes but we are also willing to make any amends possible therefor.

Omar at College.

Dreaming while Dawn's Left Hand was in the Sky,
I heard a Voice within the Senate cry—
'Awake, and cheer the Freshmen with Advice
Before the Greenness of their Youth be dry!'

Myself when young did eagerly frequent
Tutor and Prof., and heard great Argument
Of Lat'n and of Greek; but all I heard
Came out by the same Ear where in it went.

There was the Sight for which I found no Key;
There was the Verb whose Root I could not see;
Some little thought there was of iyui
A while; then kdw; then some more of iyui.

Waste not your Hour, nor in such vain Pursuit
Of ghostly Tongues endeavour and dispute;
Better be jocund with the friendly Key,
Than plug without one—and be plucked to boot.

Alas! What boots it with incessant Care
O'er your Red Books to toil with Groan and Tear,
And strictly meditate the thankless Muse—
To have "C—" on your Theme appear?

But the Corrections teach you, People say,
To sling your Gass with more Precision? Nay—
If so, by striking out each word that helps
You shoot your Face off in a fluent Way.

Some for the Glory of High Firsts; and some Sigh for the Pleasures of Rink Night to come;
Ah, take your skates and let your Latin go—
Hark the glad Music of the Band and Drum!

Why if a Chap can fling his Books aside,
And o'er the Ice with Her for eight Bands glide,
Were't not a Shame—Were't not a Shame for him
In some dark Attic cramming to abide?

And if the Puck you chase, the Hand you press,
End in a Pluck in every Subject,—yes,
Think then you know Today what Yesterday
You knew—Tomorrow you cannot know Less!

President MacKenzie at Ottawa.

On Saturday, April 13th, President MacKenzie addressed the Canadian Club at the Capital. He took as his subject "Science and the State in Eastern Canada." His carefully prepared and thoughtful address was well received and the Alumni present were proud of our President and our Alma Mater. Of course we knew our new President would do well, but Ottawa audiences are very critical, and the praise his address received from the Club members means quite a lot more than if heard elsewhere. Altogether we were proud and delighted.

In the evening the Alumni of Ottawa entertained Dr. McKenzie at dinner at the Golf Club. We had a most enjoyable evening. About twenty-five graduates and friends of Dalhousie gathered round the table, E. L. Newcombe, '78, Deputy Minister of Justice, presided, J. G. A. Creighton, '78, Law Clerk of the Senate, one of our oldest living graduates, proposed the President's health. "Stan" followed and gave us a comprehensive outline of the plans for the new Dalhousie.

"Our Sister Universities" was proposed by Mr. Newcombe in a neat speech filled with reminiscences of the old Dalhousie Professors. In responding, Dr. Klatz, Dominion Astronomer, conveyed greetings from the Alumni of Toronto and urged that we follow their example by forming an Ottawa Alumni Association. This suggestion will be followed out and a committee was appointed for that purpose. Short speeches by Martin Griffin, L. L. D., Parliamentary Librarian, M. D. Grant, '94, and W. F. O'Connor, of the Law School, concluded the first, but we hope not the last, Alumni Dinner at the Capital.

Shanghai to Port Said.

Perhaps a short account of a trip from Shanghai to London may not be uninteresting to some of the readers of the Gazette. This article will only include from Shanghai to Port Said. The writer hopes in a later number of the Gazette to have an article on Palestine and Egypt, and "From Alexandria to London."

On the ninth of December last a tender carried us from Shanghai to the German Lloyd steamer 'Roon' anchored a short distance off from shore. This steamer was to be our home for almost a month, until we should land at Port Said. Many of the passengers were German, but there were enough English to make the trip pleasant for us all. Life on shipboard is an interesting life while it lasts. Shut off from the rest of the world we must find our amusements in one another. The friendships made on shipboard are usually long remembered. The passengers on this steamer were particularly interesting to one another because they consisted of Europeans and Americans who had all spent some time in different parts of the East. Those of us from China were especially pleased to meet people from other parts of China—many of whom were leaving for the same reason as ourselves and under the same circumstances. Particularly enjoyable was the orchestra, and the Sabbath, our first day on shipboard was welcomed with a hymn. As in every sea trip some of the passengers had more pleasure than others. It certainly will be a great day when some Edison will invent some contrivance that will make seasickness a thing of the past. Here is certainly a field for the benefactor of mankind to exercise his skill and talents.

After three days we reached Hong Kong and we had a day and a half to 'do' this interesting port. As an aunt of the writer—a Captain's wife—had found a grave years ago in this place my first visit was paid to Happy Valley Cemetery. This cemetery is a beautiful spot with the hills rising up behind and at the sides sheltering it from all harm. The graveyard is divided into several sections where English and Colonials and Foreigners are buried. In the Colonial Cemetery a careful register is kept and all the graves are numbered. In the register I soon found the number of the grave I wanted and one of the Chinese sextons quickly took me to the spot. The graves and the whole cemetery are beautifully kept, and people are continually coming from all parts of the world to find relatives here. Happy Valley is a peculiarly lovely name for this corner of God's acre.

In the afternoon a railway took us to the top of 'the Peak' which rises 1,300 feet above the town. Ascending this railway put me very much in mind of going up to the summit of Mount Royal at Montreal. On the Peak at different elevations are some of the most beautiful residences in Hong Kong, and the roads to various parts are well kept and are really avenues of loveliness commanding magnificent views far out to sea. Along one of the roads we passed an aqueduct some three miles long which brings water through a tunnel which pierces the hills to a large reservoir beyond.

We especially enjoyed our visit to the Botanical Gardens called by some the finest in the world. Although it was December there was much bloom. A collection of all kinds of palm trees was particularly magnificent. The tree ferns together with the smaller varieties found in the fernery made us long to linger here for hours. A band stand, fountain, gold fish pond, small aviary, a statue of Sir Arthur Kennedy and the artistic arrangements of the flower beds, all add beauty to the place. We did regret that we could not see the butterflies for which Hong Kong is famous but it was not the season. However, we saw much of beauty in other things.

Each place has its own little ways of doing things. In Hong Kong the streets are called after the names of its governors. So we have Kennedy Road, Macdonnell Road, Parker Road, Bower Road. The ferry that carried us back and forth from Kow-low where we were anchored, to Hong Kong, was called the Star Farry, and here we had The Evening Star, The Morning Star, Southern Cross, Polar Star.

Leaving Hong Kong with all its loveliness we sailed South to Singapore, which is about seventy miles North of the Equator. When we left Shanghai we were clad in our heaviest woollens and furs—it was so cold and damp. At Hong Kong we felt it necessary to remove considerable but our thinnest summer clothes were all we could stand when we reached Singapore. I shall never forget the beautiful colours on the water as we neared this port. The red and green and blue strata, no doubt caused by different currents, was something I had never seen elsewhere. Then the rich colouring of the vegetation and the bright gay costumes of the natives—the most highly coloured postal cards did not do justice to the vividness. I shall never forget when on Sunday afternoon we neared the shore and saw the natives for the first time. They belong to the brown Malay race, and their garments especially the skirts of the men and women are of the brightest and gayest colours. Broad plaids of all shades seemed especially fashionable. I do not think anything in all my trip amused me as much as these men in skirts. It was hard to think it was their everyday costume and they were not in some circus parade.

The most interesting place to visit in Singapore is the Botanical Gardens. The drive there through Orchard Road and Orange Road, with palm trees and other tropical trees showing themselves everywhere as we passed is hard to describe.

When we reached the Gardens one of the overseers took us to a rare collection of potted plants. It was just like going through a hot house at home, but there was no glass to cover it in and this was the middle of December. Shrubs and plants of all varieties of beautiful foliage were there, maiden hair and other ferns in huge clusters, blooming flowers of all kinds, and the most peculiar orchids whose shape even we could not agree upon. We were told these gardens were once a jungle and not far back was the part not cleared. We all wished to see a real jungle and we went for a short distance inside—not very far because we did not wish to lose our way in that thicket. Looking back from where we came in we saw an ivy covering an area the size of a building. The points at the top and the window openings made one of our party exclaim 'The ivy is climbing up to form a cathedral'. We had heard this expression before and now we really saw the cathedral shape.

Coming back to the boat we noticed again the bullock carts drawn by one or two bullocks usually with a gayly dressed native or group of natives seated inside. At the wharf there were many sellers of small wares urging the passengers to buy. Among other things a basket of beautiful tropical shells could not be passed by.

Watching the brown skinned natives diving from their little boats into the water after the coins we threw to them, we left Singapore with a memory of loveliness that time will never efface, and reached Penang a day or so afterwards. We saw very little of this place because we anchored at night and started off early the next morning. The costume of the natives is very similar to that of Singapore.

At Penang we first tasted the Mangosteen—a fruit about the size of a peach with a hard brownish rind. In the centre is a soft luscious part which very quickly disappears when put in the mouth—only leaving a sweet taste behind. This fruit is hard to keep. The natives once tried to present a few to Queen Victoria but the fruit spoiled before it reached her. At this time we also tasted the Mango and the Paperia or Coolie melon, but apart from the novelty I much prefer the apple or the orange.

The day before Christmas found us at Columbo. At seven o'clock in the morning we were on shore ready to see all we could. As our boat was leaving in the afternoon we only had a half day there. A number of 'Ricksha men followed us wanting to show us everything. One man especially recommended himself by saying "I speaks good English". However, we each stepped into a 'Ricksha and spent three hours going around the town. Here again we noticed the tropical vegetation—especially the cocoanut palms and the banana trees and the gay, picturesque costumes of the natives.

Our 'ricksha men took us to the Cinnamon Gardens. Although they did not impress us as being quite as beautiful as the Singapore Gardens, yet they are well worth visiting (The Singapore Botanical Gardens have a tropical luxuriance all their own. Even the heavy fragrant atmosphere has an almost intoxicating effect). In Columbo we saw the famous rubber tree and how it is tapped. Here we saw the cinnamon tree with its fragrant leaves, and here also blooming fragrant flowers of all kinds. Perhaps a remark of a sea captain on board may not be out of place here. He told me it is quite possible when the wind is in the right quarter and the boat is in the right position to detect the 'spicy breezes' as they blow from 'Ceylon's Isle.'

A short visit to the Buddhist temple was especially interesting to us who had seen Buddhist temples in China. At one place the walls were decorated with scenes from the life of Buddha illustrating to us Indian Art, and we were obliged to put off our shoes before we entered.

Natives thronged around pressing us to buy their precious stones, little ivory and ebony elephants and other curios, jasmine, fine native silks and muslins and other things too numerous to mention. The heart was willing but the purse refused.

At lunch time we returned to our boat and I wrote a postal card home stating I was never hotter in my life. We left Ceylon shortly afterwards regretting that we had been to India and had not had a ride on an elephant.

Christmas Day we spent on the water. The Captain had brought a Christmas tree along. It was prettily trimmed and lighted with candles but our thin white dresses and the warm summer air were out of keeping with the tree. After a German Christmas dinner conspicuous by its absence of plum pudding and mince pie, we went up on deck and noticed two ships. As they passed us in the night they signalled to us their names and 'A Merry Christmas' and were soon lost in the darknes. Our boat returned the greeting.

About eleven days from Columbo we reached Aden. This barren rocky spot was a great contrast to the places we had just visited. Here they say it almost never rains and we could quite believe it. This is the last place a British Soldier is sent. A young recruit would be apt to desert. The hope of his pension generally causes the older soldier 'to endure to the end'.

The journey through the Red Sea with all its Biblical associations was particularly interesting. The sunrises and sunsets attracted many of us. Here in the early morning we saw the Southern Cross. The air was unusually clear and free from sand. We were fortunate enough to see Mt. Sinai in the distance. The three peaks stood out very clearly against the horrizon. To see the sunrise behind Mt. Sinai is something to be remembered. It was also interesting to notice the shores of the wilderness through which the children of Israel wandered so many years. We passed also little oases called Moses' Wells, where Moses caused the sweet water to flow in order to quench the thirst of the multitudes.

A coral reef with a lighthouse attracted our attention as we passed, and also a few Italian warships which had shortly before bombarded a place belonging to Turkey.

At this time much to our consternation Black Small Pox broke out among our passengers. Everyone of us on board was vaccinated and the most rigid quarantine was observed. The patient was removed at Suez with all her family and the stewardess. We were not allowed to land. The quarantine regulations are very strict at Suez and Port Said as disease is very apt to be distributed to all parts of the world from these points. However, when we reached Port Said the time for quarantine was passed. We have heard nothing since concerning the patient—a bride of one year.

At Aden and Suez we saw a different kind of people. This time not the brown race with straight hair and gay costumes but the black race with curly hair and very little clothes. These little Arabs as they came to us on small boats from the shore trying to sell to us their shell necklaces and ostrich feathers and baskets, or dancing their native dances or clapping their hands for an amusement rather touched us and many small coins were thrown overboard to their boats below. They do not dive into the water as the natives of Singapore.

Just before sunset we reached the Suez Canal. What shall I say of that wonderful feat of engineering skill that connects the waters of the Mediterranean with the Red Sea. It is altogether eighty eight miles in length. The boat is handed over to special pilots who come on board at Suez and bring their own electrical apparatus with them. At night they use a strong search light. When the sun went down the moon arose and we passed through the Suez Canal by moonlight. The signal stations and the little compounds where the keepers live make every mile interesting. There were two boats besides our own passing through the Canal with their search lights making long streaks of light in front of them. At the Bitter Lakes a place was pointed out to us as possibly the spot where Moses divided the waters for the Children of Israel to pass over.

A captain on shipboard told us it cost a very large sum to take a ship through the Suez Canal—only a little less than sailing round the Cape of Good Hope.

On the fourth of January we reached Port Said. Here we left our boat with many regrets to take side trips to Palestine and Egypt. There is very little to see in Port Said. The few hours we spent there we walked out to Ferdinand de Lessep's large monument built far out in the water. This monument of the one whose engineering skill made the Suez Canal possible, marks the spot where the waters of the Mediterranean end and the waters of the Canal begin.

Alumni Notes.

The marriage was solemnized at Christ Church recently of Miss Ida May de Bou to Mr. John Russell Weldon, of Airdrie, Alta., a large number of friends being present to witness the interesting ceremony. Mrs. Weldon, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. de Bou, of Sussex, New Brunswick, is a graduate of the University of New Brunswick, and was a member of the University Women's Club of this city. For the last four years she has been connected with the city teaching staff. Mr. Weldon is the son of Dr. Weldon of Dalhousie University, and is a graduate of that institution. Among those present at the wedding were Dr. Richard Weldon of Cranbrook, brother of the groom, and his sister, Miss Nellie Weldon, of Halifax.—Vancouver Sun.

IN MEMORIAM.

HUGH GRAHAM CREELMAN.

"The muffled drum's sad roll has beat
 The soldier's last tattoo.
 No more on life's parade shall meet
 That brave and fallen few.
 On Fame's eternal camping ground
 Their silent tents are spread
 And Glory guards with solemn round
 The bivouac of the dead."

Dalhousie has sons in many lands who do her honour, and when the Spring Convocation calls again to her precincts graduates who are near enough to respond, and a new company of recruits are enrolled in the increasing army, it is fitting that those who carry the name of Alma Mater to honour in the high places of the field should be remembered with pride and praise. But the pen has now another task not less compelling, though reluctantly undertaken.

Upper Stewiacke is a country district where industry and intelligence have always kept equal pace, and the school has ranked with the Church in the interest and liberality of the people. Out of that peaceful valley have come men who served, or still serve, their country with distinction in various walks of life. Thirty years ago none of them, nor any of Dalhousie's sons, seemed likely to win higher place in the intellectual world than did Hugh Graham Creelman, who laid aside his battered shield and broken sword a few weeks ago.

Born in January, 1863, he was educated in the local school and at Pictou Academy. Like many another country boy of his time, he enjoyed an advantage which, by the combined wisdom of the Council of Public Instruction and the Dalhousie Authorities, is now abolished. In those days the school term was six months long, the Summer term beginning with May, and the College term was six months, beginning with November. As a result a number of students spent the summer teaching school, bringing to many a bright boy in the country the inspiration and enthusiasms of College life. In this way young Creelman came for several sessions under the eye and influence of such a judge of character as N. F. (now Dr.) Cunningham, of whose thoroughness in anything he undertakes many can testify. Mr. Creelman came from Pictou Academy to Dalhousie, winning one of the Professors' Scholarships, in the fall of 1877. Throughout his college course he took high place in all his subjects, carrying off many prizes, winning each session a Certificate of merit, three of them of the first class, and graduated in 1881 with Honours in Mathematics and Physics and the Governor General's Gold Medal. He had passed only his eighteenth birthday in January previous.

After graduation he taught for about two years, and in 1883 won the Gilchrist Scholarship, then the blue ribbon in student life. Thereupon he went to University College in London for a year, and then to Edinburgh, from whose university he graduated with High Honours in 1886. Besides several prizes and medals, he won there the Vans Dunlap Scholarship, of the annual value of one hundred pounds sterling for three years. Those three years he spent in Germany, chiefly at Berlin. He grappled with a problem that had baffled many. The solution was, we believe, reached. The materials for the thesis required for the Doctor's Degree were being gathered. The three years had passed. He stuck to his task too long and too closely. The clear, strong intellect began to lose its powers of concentration, and the shadows gathered that shrouded his pathway to the close. He came home and for a time tried to teach. It seemed now and then that his former power might be recovered. He was heard occasionally in public address, with effect enough to show how strong a speaker he might have been, and to sharpen the keenness of our regret for what had come.

He went to Montreal, and for a time did a little in private tuition, but seven years ago had to go under the care of Dr. Burgess of the Verdun hospital, where to the end he had his home. His faithful and trusted friend, Rev. Dr. Scott, has acknowledged in the Montreal Witness the debt of gratitude we and all Mr. Creelman's friends owe to Dr. Burgess and to the Librarian of McGill University who made it possible for him to spend many quiet hours among the books he loved. It was, we believe, while on his way back to the hospital after a day in the Library that Mr. Creelman was overtaken by a sudden weakness which soon ended in the rest eternal, how welcome! His friends may feel a natural regret that his last years had to be spent among those who might be called strangers. Let them remember that he was with his beloved books, with freedom to wander among them, and without doubt, happier than he could have been anywhere else. Moreover Graham Creelman was never long among strangers. His gentle thoughtful spirit, his high sense of honour, his uniform courtesy made friends everywhere.

It would be sheer pretence to make light of the tragedy of this broken life. It was a bitter disappointment to all who knew the bright promise of his early manhood. We used to think of him as a perfect example of the "mens sana in corpore sano." We expected great things from him. It was a bitter disappointment to himself who set forth so hopeful, and with prospects so fair. Is there anything to be said? There is—Spirit is as high above intellect as intellect is above the merely physical. His intellect was admirable in the days of its strength, but his spirit was rarely beautiful all through. Says Dr. Scott "We measure success in life by substance gained or power attained in these brief years, and thus measured his life seems a failure. But the Immortals measure by a different standard, by the unselfish devotion of life, after the pattern of the Great Master, and thus measured his life was no failure.

"Even as he trod that day to God, so walked he from his birth,
In simpleness and gentleness and honour and clean mirth."

The mirth, alas! failed, but the gentleness, and honour and cleanness of life and heart remained to the end. No, not the end, thank God! for

"What is our failure here but a triumph's evidence
For the fullness of the days?"

"On the earth the broken arch, in the heaven, a perfect round."

ANNUAL DALHOUSIE DINNER.

On the evening of April 22nd at about eight o'clock, that is after the meeting of the Alumni Association was over, Dalhousians gathered once more to their Annual Dinner in the Queen Hotel.

It was a good night, a successful affair, where all who are Dalhousians, that is are interested in Dalhousie, could hear what the College is doing, and it was very encouraging to note the large number of business men present, besides many of the leading professional men of the City.

Prof. Macneill read a number of letters and telegrams from very prominent Dalhousians, who though unable to be present, because distant, still wished to show their interest in the College.

The speeches were good and especially impressed on everyone present the following ideas:

The real need of a University like Dalhousie in Nova Scotia and Halifax. She has done noble work, but much remains to be done in the great task of education in every sphere. Nova Scotia cannot grow without Dalhousie.

Particularly impressive were the compliments paid by men whose compliments mean something as to the sound educational ideals cherished by the Faculties of the College in the past and present.

In a brief address President MacKenzie strongly solicited the aid of the Alumni "the most important part of the College" in the great task which Dalhousie has undertaken.

The toast to the graduates was responded to in a happy manner by representatives from Arts, Med., Law, and Dentistry, and the National Anthem brought another good Dalhousie gathering to an end.

Correspondence.

Editors Dalhousie Gazette:—

Let me thank yourselves and "O. B. J." for the very kind and, on the whole, discriminating and helpful review of my little book, "Songs of the Makers of Canada." Only in two particulars shall I ask you to permit me to correct your reviewer. His criticism would have been just if I had said in my Preface "the positive banalities of Kipling's verse." I restricted my application to his verse as far as contained "in the recent joint-history of England"—Mr. Fletcher writing the history in prose and Mr. Kipling signaling some of the episodes in verse (q. v.). In "My Scotia By The Sea" the Scotia is not Scotland, but the Atlantic peninsula Province of Canada.

Very truly yours,

J. D. LOGAN.

The Women's Residence.

Since the Alumnae Society was first formed the hope of a residence for Women students has been before it, and towards this end the energies of the Association have been turned.

Last year the Governors of the College offered to the Alumnae the use of the residence at Studley, and it was expected that a college home would be opened there next September. However, later a committee was appointed to look over the residence at Studley and on their report it was decided by the Alumnae that the house was impracticable for their requirements.

Consequently another house was sought, and the Alumnae have rented an attractive one at a short distance from the College.

Dr. Ritchie, President of the Alumnae has most generously offered her services as Dean of the Womens Residence, and will undoubtedly be an able head.

Alumnae Association.

The fourth annual meeting of the Dalhousie Alumnae Association was held in the Munro Room of the College on Monday afternoon, April 22nd, the President in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The address by Dr. Ritchie was listened to with close attention and interest. The Alumnae in the three years of their existence have accomplished much, and next September the aim towards which they have worked is to become a reality in a women's Residence, which is to bear the name of Forrest Hall. No name could have been more fittingly chosen, and the enthusiasm with which the choice was received in itself expressed the deep regard of all for Dr. Forrest. A letter was read by the President bearing to the Alumnae the appreciation of Dr. Forrest at this last mark of their kindness to him. Dr. Ritchie trusted and believed that once opened Forrest Hall would "by its own performances" provide for its own extension.

The report of the Executive Committee presented by Miss F. Blanchard, gave a clear insight of the work done by the Association through the year, and referred more particularly to the plans for the furnishing of the new residence.

The Financial Statement given by the Treasurer, Miss Grace Saunders, was highly gratifying showing a balance on hand of $2491.57. The success of the Dickens Bazaar, and the Lectures on Sculpture helped greatly to make this report so satisfactory.

For the past three years the Alumnae have offered a bursary to the best woman student of the third year. This year the bursary was won by Miss Helen Steeves, and Miss Louise Clayton, both being equal in their final examinations.

It was decided by the meeting that this bursary should be discontinued for next year as the demands upon the funds would necessarily be very large, due to the opening of the residence.

Following the general business of the meeting the officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

Honorary President,	Mrs. Trueman.
President,	Mrs. Howard Murray.
First Vice-President,	Mrs. Hector MacInnes.
Second Vice-President.	Miss Florence Blackwood.
Recording Secretary,	Miss Dora Faulkner.
Corresponding Secretary,	Miss Marguerite Silver.
Treasurer,	Miss Grace Saunders.

Executive Committee:—Miss Ella Ritchie, Mrs. Murray Macneill, Miss Jamieson, Miss Catharine MacKay, and Dr. Grace Rice.

House Committee:—Mrs. Jones, Miss Jean Forrest, Mrs. M. Grant, Miss H. Bayer.

After the election of officers Dr. Minna M. Austen, a graduate of Dalhousie, and a Missionary of the Methodist Church at Chentu, China, gave a brief but illuminating address upon China and its people. She spoke of the great possibilities that lay in this nation which the future would undoubtedly unfold.

At the close of this address Mrs. Trueman moved, and Mrs. Jones seconded, a vote of thanks to the retiring President, Dr. Ritchie, a vote enthusiastically passed by the meeting.

The serving of tea brought to a pleasant close one of the most hopeful meetings of the Alumnae Association.

Prize Competition, 1912-1913.

The Editors for 1912-13 have decided to continue the prizes offered last year for prose articles submitted for publication, and to offer similar prizes for poetry. The award will be made according to the following conditions:—

1. Every contributor must be a student attending classes at the University.
2. Prose articles must be original, and at least 500 words and not more than 2,000 words in length. Poems must be original, and not less than 50 and not more than 500 words in length.
3. Articles must be written on one side of the paper only, the writer's name not to appear on the manuscript, but to be given to the editors separately. Any student may submit more than one article.
4. Articles for competition may be submitted at any time during the fall, but not later than January 10th, 1913. All articles submitted or published during the intervening period will be eligible for a prize.
5. The judges who will decide the competition will be the Editor-in-Chief and a member of the faculty.
6. A first prize of $5.00, and a second prize of $3.00, will be given for the two best articles submitted, and the same prizes for the two best poems.
7. No prizes will be awarded unless the articles submitted are considered of sufficient merit by the judges.
8. No Gazette Editor will be eligible for any of these prizes.

President,	G. Fred Long, '13.

Freshie G. McL-n—"Gee! I'd sit up writing sonnets all night if I was half the poet Jas. D. G-ll-s of our county is."

G. L-tt-e (in basement)—"Better to smoke here than smoke hereafter."

Prof. (stepping in)—"And better to smoke hereafter than here after the fine you are going to get. Report to the Dean, please."

Where there is unrestricted competition, say economists, a crisis is inevitable. Members of the 1915 Class have been for a long time vying with one another, to see who could put on the greatest "front". At first honors were evenly divided between Marcus Tullius Cicero (class orator), a young man, who spent an autumn evening in the Ladies College porch, and the "Guy" with the big feeling and small name. But, late in November, appeared on the scene, one who caused the other lights to wane. This personage, quondam cowboy, quondam mama's boy, quondam half a dozen professions, old in experience, juvenile in name, immediately, for obnoxious freshness, became the admired of all admirers in the '15 Class.

One fine night, Sophomore patience became exhausted as His Grace stepped out of the door of the South End Rink, escorted by a young lady to see him safely home, and a delegation of the '14 Class, who had long sought the honor of his acquaintance, waited upon him. Introductions were necessarily, owing to the flight of time, very informal, and His Grace, not able to make himself as well known as was the general desire of the company. Before he left however, he presented the Class with a slight memorial of the occasion which they prized highly, "not for its intrinsic worth, but the spirit which prompted it" next morning had placed in a conspicuous part of the College "Floreat Ivvenis."

Christie (recovering from a mental delusion to which he has been subject since September 21, 1911) I really believe a war would do this country good.
