

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

JOHN MURRAY.—M. P. for West Leeds (Lloyd George Liberal) 1918-1923. Prize-Fellow of Merton College, Oxford, 1905. Tutor and Censor (1910-1915) Christ Church College, Oxford.

JOHN CLARENCE WEBSTER.—Has held appointments as lecturer in the Faculty of Medicine in the University of Edinburgh, McGill University, Montreal, and in Rush Medical College (affiliated with the University of Chicago). Author of many scientific monographs and papers.

SIR JOHN WILLISON.—Formerly editor of The Globe. Author of numerous books and articles on subjects of Canadian history.

CHARLES MALCOLM MACINNES.—Lecturer on History in the University of Bristol.

CARLETON W. STANLEY.—Formerly on the staff of The Manchester Guardian. Later a lecturer in the Department of English, University of Toronto.

HUGH ROBERT GRANT.—General Secretary of the Social Service Council of Nova Scotia.

JAMES ALEXANDER STRAHAN.—Professor of Jurisprudence, University of Belfast. Reader of Equity, Inns of Court, London, and Examiner in legal subjects, London University. Author of many legal textbooks.

EDMUND KEMPER BROADUS.—Professor of English, University of Alberta. Formerly Professor in the University of South Dakota, and lecturer at Oxford, Trinity Term, 1919.

NORMAN MCLEOD ROGERS.—Professor of History, Acadia University. Formerly Rhodes Scholar for Nova Scotia, University of Oxford.

PELHAM EDGAR.—Professor of English Literature, Victoria College, University of Toronto.

ALBERT GEORGE NICHOLLS.—Professor of Pathology, Dalhousie University. Author of many contributions to medical and other journals.

PHIL. HOOPER MOORE.—A civil and mining engineer. Has published much prose and verse in American and Canadian journals.