

Contributors

J. S. ERSKINE

Historian, naturalist, archaeologist, and free-lance writer of Wolfville, Nova Scotia.

GENE A. BARNETT

Assistant Professor of English, Fairleigh Dickinson University, Teaneck, New Jersey; author of articles on drama and American literature.

G. A. RAWLYK

Associate Professor of History, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario; author of articles on Canadian history and of Yankees at Louisbourg (Orono, Maine, 1967); edited Revolution Rejected, 1775-1776 (Scarborough, Ont., 1968).

HEATH MACQUARRIE

Member of the House of Commons for Queen's County, P.E.I.; formerly Lecturer or Professor in Economics, Political Science, or International Relations at the Universities of New Brunswick and Manitoba, and at McGill; delegate or observer at the General Assembly of the United Nations; member of the House of Commons External Affairs Committee and of the Canadian Delegation to the Inter-American Economic and Social Conference, Uruguay, 1961; author of numerous articles on Canadian history, politics, and political science.

JAN S. PRYBYLA

Professor of Economics, Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa.; author of articles on China and the U.S.S.R.; currently preparing a book of readings and interpretations, Comparative Economic Systems: Market, Command, and Changing Custom, to be published in 1968 or 1969.

J. C. GRAY

Associate Professor of English, University of Waterloo; author of Words, Words, and Words about Dictionaries (San Francisco: Chandler, 1963), and of articles on literature and composition; a study of The Faerie Queene has recently been completed.

HENRY WINTHROP

Chairman, Department of Interdisciplinary Social Sciences at the University of South Florida; contributor to numerous periodicals, anthologies, symposia, and reference works; contributing editor of several professional journals; work to be published in 1968 will include two books—Ventures in Social Interpretation and The Manager's Guide to Good Human Relations.

PHILIP GARDNER

Lecturer in English, Memorial University of Newfoundland, currently en-

A Slice of Canada

MEMOIRS

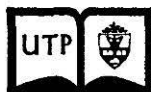

by

WATSON KIRKCONNELL

These memoirs not only offer a personal flashback of the remarkably full and active literary career of one of the most familiar figures in the world of Canadian letters, they also provide a firsthand account of the most important developments in this country over the past decades. Dr. Kirkconnell has avoided the merely chronological: he has taken the various phases of the Canadian tradition and analysed his experience of each through the years. These writings demonstrate his discerning faculty of observation and close involvement not only with the arts, but with education, religion and politics as well.

$8.50 at your bookseller

University of Toronto Press

Contributors (continued)

gaged, on a Canada Council Doctoral Fellowship, in research at the University of Liverpool; lectured in Japanese universities, 1960-1964; author of The Deserted Vicarage (poems, 1959) and working on a book on Norman Nicholson.

VICTOR HOAR

Assistant Professor of English, University of Western Ontario; author of articles on American history and literature, and of a study (in preparation) of Morley Callaghan; the article in this issue is derived from a book, The Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion: Canadians in the Spanish Civil War, to be published in Toronto (Autumn, 1968).

VERSE

LAURENCE DAKIN, of Rhodes, Greece; CHARLES EDWARD EATON, of Merlin Stone, Connecticut; JOHN V. HICKS, of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan; DANIEL J. LANGTON, of San Francisco, California; DOUGLAS LOCHHEAD, of Toronto; STANLEY MASON, of Geneva, Switzerland.