

JOHN DITSKY

Mentor

He taught me how to deal with words.
And now, retired, we hear he struggles
For his grasp on language: “dishwasher”
At last he turns to “firebox”;

His daughter’s suitcase he designates
A “basket.” He sits amidst his dictionaries
Looking for what he’s lost. I don’t
Like seeing what I’m saying. Words fail.