I. The Edinburgh Medical and Surgical Journal, for 1803, 1806, 1807, 1808, 1809, exhibiting a concise view of the latest and most important discoveries in Medicine, Surgery, and Pharmacy, (published quarterly,) 20 Numbers, £ 3; or any single Number, price 3s. each; or the whole handsomely done up in 5 Volumes, boards, price 31. 2s. 6d.

 After the experience of five years, the Editors have the satisfaction of finding the patronage, with which they have been honoured, progressively increasing; the circulation of this Journal becoming more extensive, and their correspondents more numerous. It would occupy too much space to enumerate all the respectable Practitioners who have contributed to establish and support the reputation of the Journal. Let it be sufficient to mention, that in the last volume, are contained communications from Des Bateman, Becker, Rost, Beige, Clarke, Husack, Jones, Perry, Reeve, Rutten, Winters, Wright, and Yeohly; and from Messrs Aldin, Barlow, A. Burns, Carmichael, Cooper, Crowell, Currier, Goodlad, Granger, Hague, Hill, Hooper, Jenkinson, Lawrence, Oldknow, Robertson, Simmons, Wadsworth, Watts, and Woodham.

II. The Farmer's Magazine, a periodical work, published quarterly, exclusively devoted to Agriculture and Rural Affairs, for the Years 1800, 1801, 1802, 1803, 1804, 1805, 1806, 1807, 1808, 1809, 40 Numbers, (and Supplement to 1803.) price 4l. 13s.; or in ten Volumes in boards, price 4l. 18s.

 The establishment of a Board for promoting Agriculture and agricultural improvement, brought husbandry into fashion, and directed public attention to an art which, before that period, had been undervalued and neglected. From the change of public sentiment, the Proprietors of the Farmer's Magazine were encouraged to bring forward a periodical work which should contain interesting discussions upon agricultural subjects, and furnish select and important information respecting the state of markets, produce of crops, rate of artisans, and value of laborers in almost every district of the island. The design, at least the latter part of it, was new, therefore not carried into execution till the assurance of numerous respectable agriculturists, both in Scotland and in England, was sought for and obtained; and to the active and steady exertions of these friends, may be attributed the accocumulated and unprecedented success of the work since its commencement—a success by far beyond that of any agricultural publication before attempted in this or any other country.

In the volumes of the Farmer's Magazine, many published, may be found regular essays or discourses upon every agricultural subject which can be mentioned, together with an immense number of local circumstances, all calculated for the improvement of agriculture and the benefit of all connected with it. The importance of husbandry, as the basis of our national wealth, and the necessary means of subsistence, have been well understood by the Proprietors, and the purpose of the undertakers to make a practical writer on husbandry, the Rev. Mr Hart, in his work on Agriculture, to which the present writer pays his little contingent, in the Republic of Knowledge with a lot of unstamped real bullies, whilst the valuable man of science throws down as much of glittering canters, which are good in the eye, but dead to the understanding.
