

Mr. Robinson

Mr. James Hervey
Northumberland Street No. 12.
Avenue
London

Glasgow 23<sup>d</sup> July 1787

Dr. Sir

I am this Day fervid: with your worth and Dile, tho I am no Way sen. tilled to follo-
-cit the Members of our University in a Mat-ter of so much Importance to their Society as the Place of Lecturer on Men.istry, yet I took an Opportunity of founding what could be done for you, & was sorry to find there could be no Chance in your Favour, being opined that with the Majority of the Members the Circum. stance of your not being bred to Physick, would be an insuperable Bar against you - I am sorry to acquaint you further that I am not likely to be more suc-cessful as to the Matter which made the Sub-ject of our Conversation at parting; of such I have not been unweariedly tho. I delayed writing you about it. - I do not apprehend the Publi-cation you mention is likely to anticipate that Subject - I expect to be in London by the next

End of August & will be happy to meet you here & receive your Acc<sup>ts</sup> of that Publication & other Occurrences. I shall, I suppose, find your Address, if not yourself in Northumberland land Court, Meas. For. I believe me & with kind regards

D<sup>r</sup> Sir

Your Obed<sup>t</sup> & Aff<sup>l</sup> Serv<sup>t</sup>

Harry Robertson