EDITORIAL

Dalhousie has at last adopted the custom long followed by the leading universities of Great Britain and later by those of the United States in offering prizes for poetry and prose compositions by members of the student body. This has been made possible through the munificent gifts of Mr. W. H. Dennis. The announcement of the conditions of the competition will be found on another page of this issue.

At the same time prizes have been offered by the Sydney Post for the best articles on subjects dealing with Cape Breton of which announcement is also made in this number.

In connection with our own literary competition we wish to announce that a second competitor has gained his literary D, Mr. L. A. Munro, B. A., being the recipient. Two young ladies are now only one point below the 25 entitling them to the prize.

The "Gazette" takes this opportunity of congratulating Mr. Munro on having passed the 25 point mark.

The next number of this paper to appear will be the Library Number, dealing with subjects closely connected with the Library and its contents.

EXCHANGES

Red and White—The December number of this magazine contains many articles of merit, among which is one entitled "Dante is Ours". This article is evidently the result of a careful study of the writings of that famous poet, and more especially of his "Divina Commedia". "The Poet", a contribution from the pen of Prof. R. B. Drummer, should be read along with that on Dante. Some fine verse productions, good jokes and short stories make this a very creditable college journal.

The Merchistonian—An Edinburgh school magazine, edited by members of Merchistonian Castle School. Much space is allotted to those in charge of the War Memorial. Sketches of the proposed Hall are shown. The article, "The Making of a Medieval Man", is interesting. Some verse and a few jokes would considerably improve this school issue.

The Western U. Gazette—"Physical Education in the University" is the title of a well written article to be found in the issue of Jan. 11th. The poem, "Evolution", should prove of interest to students of Geology in the various universities.

The Sheaf—"Sim Pull's" letter to the editor is cleverly humorous, and at the same time draws attention to a mistake which many of our papers make, and which seems so difficult for them to avoid, namely, the use of hackneyed words and phrases in writing up college activities. We heartily agree with the sentiments expressed in your editorial re annual meetings of the Students' Council. The "first-of-the-term" mass meeting is a splendid idea.

The Manitoban—The January number of this paper contains an editorial well worth reading, entitled "Relearning the Gospel of Work". This article is extremely well written and is published at an appropriate time. "Sore 'AB' and Roast Em" is a clever cartoon. The "Ode to a Geometric Progression" will appeal to those exposed to Math. I. Altogether your paper is the best yet from your staff.

Acadia Athenaeum—The Jan.-Feb. Athenaeum contains the usual number of short stories, some of which are very good. We like your idea of inserting instructive, scientific articles in your journal. Both verse contributions are good, although, with all due deference to the opinion of your judges, we would choose "The Wolf Howl" as the su-

ARTS AND SCIENCE '23

After a nice fall of snow on Wednesday last, all augured well for Thursday night's sleigh drive of Class '23. But on Thursday heavy snow was falling, which later turned to rain and thus a good time seemed spoilt. However, undaunted, forty class-spirited members of '23 gathered at the Forrest Building and were delighted to find that the committee had arranged for a Theatre Party.

So with Mrs. M. MacNeill and Mrs. H. F. Munro as chaperones the party set out for the Orpheus, where the production "Little Lord Fauntleroy" was greatly enjoyed by all.

After the theatre, the party were the guests of Miss Marion Clark, Oxford St., who had very kindly thrown her home open for the occasion. Here, games were played, and a sumptuous bean supper was served by Mrs. Clark.

Altogether the affair was most successful, and everyone agreed that the Theatre Party was a fitting substitute for the Sleigh drive. However, the drive will be held in the very near future.

A committee of the class is at present compiling a Graduation Book, which is to contain a biography of each member of '23. This is something new, in its line, at Dal, and the committee are earnestly striving to make it a success.

The following is an alleged answer made by a certain Medical Student in an examination on "The Spine":

GLEANINGS FROM THE RESIDENCES

UNIVERSITY HALL

Every one, with an option on a pair of skates, spent Saturday afternoon, the 14th, on Chocolate Lake. The skating that Friday and Saturday on the lake was certainly a revelation and our shell-ice friends at the "Arena" did not need much of a staff to handle their crowd.

Mr. Jas Graham, manager of the 'Varsity basket ball team, is a busy man these days.

The House Committee have held several meetings lately—regarding "the high cost of living question" and its relation to the residents of the "Hall".

At a mass meeting early in the week, Messrs. Bruce and Graham were added to the Billiard Committee.

The sick people are all around again, W. A. Richardson being the last to recover.

The defeat of the college team by Boston "Tech" came as a mild shock to most of us. We did think the score would be different that night. Our sorrow was, no doubt, a matter of rejoicing to the so-called friends of the team—inside and outside the college circle. Harvard is a different question, for they have everything to build up a winning team, which we at the present time have not. We suppose it will be another lifetime before another "Dal" team invades the States—and we sincerely hope that the manager of the hockey team, of that day, will not have the difficulties in his way the present manager had. Mr. McDonald has our heartiest congratulations for carrying the trip thru at all.

Eddie Bayer has returned and is receiving the glad hand. His left arm is still in a sling, but otherwise he shows no sign of the accident.

Another Billiard Tournament is under way. Mr. Alex. Guthro was the winner of the pre-Xmas one, and when the handicaps are re-arranged will be given the opportunity to repeat.

Pine Hill has challenged us to a hockey game. The arrangements were referred to a committee, but the committee is very quiet.

Once again we journeyed to the rink and had our share of the $120. The bands were reversed in the middle; people ran together and the ice was the usual A-1 (excellent) quality of the Arena management—so of course we all enjoyed ourselves. The money spent by the Skating Club each year would run an open air rink for a couple of months, but then we would not be blessed with the excellent service and "take it or leave" attitude of the Arena.

"Arts" has evidently developed something new in the line of goal keepers. His method of play is new any way, and his "style" is a vast improvement over "Archie's". Archie says "style" does not win hockey games, and we guess he is right. This week's news is not meant to be funny!

We were a little previous in our conclusions regarding Archie's illness. His latest seizure necessitated his removal to the hospital. All the boys are very sorry for his misfortune, and hope he will soon be back again.

The usual speculation over "who will be called" to the "Delta Gamma" dance is on the rounds. We hope all the "faithful" will receive their invitation in due course and that the dance will be its usual successful social affair. Bruce is already patting himself on the back.

Many attended the Dal-Wanderers game. The boys went in a body, due to the successful negotiating of "Charlie" Baxter with the Arena management. The protest "bug" that ran rampant in intercollegiate sport last fall is now going to have some fun in the City League. A goodly number of the Merchant Marine are reposing in state on the waters of the "Arm" in front of the "Birchdale". Whether it is the first idea of economizing of the new government is not quite plain. Any way, we think Captain Laing should get a slide of them for using in his illustrated lecture on "Canadian Shipping". Those six will not run on any rocks this winter.

Prof. Copp and M. H. Mahon were visitors during the week.

The second billiard tournament is well under way and nearly every game sees the dope upset. Messrs. Graham and Guthro, the two performers in the previous tournament, went down to defeat in the first round. "Jim" went to the rink on the 25th to negotiate a bid to the D. G. Dance. Notable victories in the first round of the tournament were those of Henry Dewolfe, Wilson, R. McG. Dawson and James L. Wickwire. The victory of Wickwire over Prof. Peck was especially entertaining. "Pocketing the white" was the favorite shot. We pick Baxter to win the tournament and R. McG. Dawson for the runner up.

Monte Haslam's friends are overjoyed to have him back again, and every one hopes he will soon discard the cane.

Fogo was a visitor on the evening of the 25th, and rumor has it some of Forbes' missing collars have wandered back. Forbes is trying to introduce the one button coat style again. It gives him a chance to show that "knitted" sweater.

A big crowd turned out for the Dal-Crescent game. "Gee" lost the running for (Rudolf's) crown and played a very good game. The victory pleased us as much as the one over the "Wanderers", but we were minus the write-up the next day.

Plans are afoot for another "Birchdale" dance—the date is too far in the future to guess. THE "SCRIBE".

ART EXHIBITION AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE

During the week of February 2-8 Halifax art lovers will have an opportunity to see some of the best pictures now in the Art Exhibition at Ottawa together with the best of those in private collections throughout this city.

In an attempt to revive interest in the subject of the Arts these pictures will be on exhibition at the Majestic Theatre for a full week, commencing today. Talks on the subject will be given in all the local schools and in addition Haligonians will have an opportunity to hear the well-known poet, Mr. Robert Norwood lecture at the Theatre, the particular date for his talk being Wednesday, February 8th. Mr. Ifan Williams, the well-known violinist at the Halifax Conservatory of Music will have his own orchestra at the Majestic to render musical selections, and this in itself should be sufficient to warrant a large attendance. Mr. Williams is the only associate of the Royal Academy of Music in the Dominion, and any orchestra organized and directed by him may be depended upon to fulfill all expectations.

Three prizes in the form of pictures by local artists for the best article on "What I Consider the Best Picture in the Exhibition and Why," will be offered by the committee in charge. Here is a chance for students who are interested to avail themselves of a golden opportunity and for those who do not know much about the subject to become better acquainted with it.

WHAT THE FACULTIES ARE DOING

PHARMACY "DOPE"

Great excitement prevailed in the camp of the Pharmacists when it was learned that their Hockey team was to meet the Law "New Timers" on the eve of the 21st, at 5 p. m. Wherewith, at the appointed hour, we all wandered to the South End Rink to view the battle, regardless of such trifles as snow blizzards, wet feet and cold suppers. And be it known unto the world, we were amply repaid for our efforts, as the game was more exciting than a big league.

Referee Chittick called the warriors to combat at 5.15 and it was indeed a noble sight to see these great and good men take the ice.

The game opened at a furious rate, but it was soon manifest that the "Pharms" had the edge on their opponents and after five minutes of play, Collins drove the rubber past Fogo for the first score, amidst wild cheering from the four-thou.—Pardon—dozen—spectators. Three more goals were shoved in in quick succession by Seldon, Ormond and Beaton. From then till the final gong, the play was as fast as the opening of a six day bicycle race. Law put forth a desperate effort in the final period and bombarded Lorne Rice from all angles. In the last five minutes of play a Law man dashed thru the Pharm defence and slapped a roller into the nets for a count.

The game ended without further scoring and when the auditors had ceased summing up the score, it was found that Pharmacy had won 4 to 1. The Pharms felt the absence of "Kewpie" Melanson, the tiny whirlwind from Moncton who is writing the board exams in N. B.

On glancing over the Inter-Faculty Hockey Schedule, we notice that Pharmacy is not represented. Now, we are at a loss to comprehend, whether it is that the "head guys" want us to combine with the "Dentals" or whether they think that our names are on Mr. Covey's new list of "Professionals" and it's no use giving us a chance anyway, since the fatal 26th is drawing nigh. As regards the former, it was decided at a recent class meeting, to enter an "all Pharmacy" team in the Inter-Faculty League as there are more than enough stalwart athletes in the class to ably represent the "Pill Mixers' Union".

Tommy Horsler, our star hockiest, arrived safe and intact from Boston and vicinity and is getting the glad hand on all sides, for his splendid showing against Boston Tech. and Harvard.

MEDICAL NOTES

The Meds have gathered an aggregation of hockey experts and are going to be a factor in the Interfaculty League if Covey doesn't keep up his suspension tactics. Regular practices on Tuesday and Thursday is their program if the ice man permits. The defence is as last year, to start with, viz., Corbett, Zinck and D. Cochrane. The forwards are too numerous to mention, but Glenister, Keating, Kinley, MacPherson, MacMillan, Wilson, Cummings, Cameron and Kelly. MacLeave participated in their first game.

Poirier, the manager, is a hard worker, except when on "sick leave". He has arranged for several outside games, and expects to take the visitors into camp. Of course it goes without saying that he hopes to have his colts in good condition before they clash with the Legal Embryos.

We regret losing "Bricky" Dunn and Fabie Bates before they even play one game with us, but there our motto must be lived up to: "When a man can make the "D" team we don't want him". We have several other stars and hope to see them out to our next practices.

About one and one-half years ago it was reported that the medical faculty was endowed with a million dollars. As no tangible signs are in evidence many Meds are asking if it was the proverbial "Million Dollar Mystery"?

Was it with the desire to catch some one down in attendance and prevent them from writing exams, another form of plucking, that the request was sent from the President's office for all Medical Professors to be present and to make certain of roll call the last two college days before Xmas?

ENGINEERING NOTES

Mr. J. F. Lumsden, of the Nova Scotia Power Commission, delivered a very interesting lecture on Friday, the 13th, before the Engineering Society. Subject, "The Margaret Bay Power Development". The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides showing the stages in the construction of the plant.

The basket ball team had a practice in the "Tech" gym. on Saturday, the 14th. Few attended—due to the attraction of Chocolate Lake.

Miss Hazel White, a former member of the society, spent a week in the city the middle of the month. Miss White is now a member of the teaching profession, and was on her way to St. John's, Nfld.

The Engineering basket ball team received a severe handling by a Pine Hill team on Thursday, Jan. 19th. The game was played at Pine Hill, and the small gym. and the long walk partly explains the result.

Mr. R. F. Dummitt, chief chemist at Imperoyal, will lecture before the society on the third of February. Subject, "The Refining of Oils". This lecture will probably be held in the drafting room.

Capt. Laing was very witty and his references to the navy during the war brought forth much applause. Prof. B. C. Hunt, of the Commerce Department, made an excellent chairman.

Fate and The Man

(Concluded)
III

As he rushed out a volume of smoke and flame belched behind him. Across the dark thoroughfare he ran blindly, tripped over some obstruction in his path and fell heavily. Half stunned by the violence of the fall, he rose trembling and staggered to the opposite side of the road. Then he turned to survey the red ruin he had wrought. Like one transfixed he stood watching the rolling masses of smoke and the fiery caverns within the doomed building.

Slowly he became aware of a gathering crowd, and heard like one in a dream the continuous shouts of Fire! Fire! Soon he was recognized and surrounded by an eager, questioning mob, whose confusion was so great that he could not make out what was said to him. The owners of the adjoining properties were already pouring out from their houses, half dazed with fright exerting themselves to the utmost to save the most valuable of their cherished belongings before the devouring element reached their unprotected homes.

Sinking down on the bare pavement the incendiary buried his head in his hands, outwardly showing an appropriate amount of alarm and desolation, whilst telling over in his mind the sum his insurance company would have to pay out to settle his loss.

Suddenly he detected a swift change in the spirit of the crowd. He looked up and strove dully to understand its meaning. The countenances turned towards him showed no menace, but only an expression of pitying horror.

In a frenzy of meaningless fear he struggled to his feet and looked across at the burning building.

A deep hush seemed to fall on the multitude. In the midst of them all he stood motionless, pale as death, bereft, as it were, of the power of speech or movement. His staring eyes were fixed on a bedroom window of the second floor.

There outlined against the terrible glare within, the figure of his son, Joseph, was revealed.

Faithfully the boy had performed his mission; but finding his aunt's house closed, he had forgone the theatre and ridden back home, and after securing his bicycle in the shed had let himself in by the back door, a key to which he always kept about him. Going up to his own room by the way of the back stairs he had not come upon the scene of his father's operations, neither was he fated to meet him, for he had gone on his short walk. Fatigue soon paved the way to sleep, and so there was no evidence of his presence when the father got back.

And this was his awakening. He was leaning over the window sill with waving arms and shrieks for help pealing from his lips.

Across the street he caught sight of his father, who was too numbed with horror to move a foot.

"Dad! Dad!" he cried, his voice ringing clear above the roar of the fire and the crash of falling beams, "Save me! Save me!"

The appeal seemed to break the spell that bound the old man to the spot. He broke headlong from the clutching hands that tried to hold him back and plunged into the dense cloud that issued from the now opened doorway.

The heat inside began to scorch his flesh and the stifling fumes to choke him. From room to room he fought his way through bellowing tongues of flame and thick wreaths of oily vapour to the foot of the stairs which led to the second floor. He leaned upon the first blackened step, it crumbled, and a yawning chasm of flame and smoke rendered the way to the upper rooms impassable. The back stairs had already given way, and hope died within the incendiary's breast.

Burnt, bruised and half stifled, he battled back to the entrance, and as he reached the threshold he remembered the ladder in the back yard. Surely it would be long enough. To dart round the burning pile, drag it from the shed and rear it against the outer wall was the work of a minute.

It began to slant sideways when he was half way up; but so swiftly did he mount that he reached the open window and clutched the sill before it fell away from under his feet and crashed into the yard below. Painfully he drew himself up by sheer strength and scrambled into the room.

"Joseph! Joseph!" he called; but no answering voice greeted his ear. From place to place he rushed with the desperation of despair, growing weaker and weaker as the moments sped by.

At last he found his son, prostrate on the floor. Dizzily he raised the unconscious boy up and hastened to the nearest window, for the floor was burning under his feet. Twice he stumbled and fell, and as often struggled up again sight and sense alike beginning to fail at the crucial moment.

Suddenly the sound of loud cheering reached his ear. He looked up, his filmy eyes caught sight of the well-known brass helmet and a pair of outstretched, rescuing arms. The next moment his precious burden was snatched from him, and the fireman descended the ladder with the still living form of the boy over his shoulder. But the wild cheers of the excited crowd were not destined to reach the ears of the dying man above. Flooring and roof gave away, he vanished from sight, and was buried in the fiery ruins.

In the neighbouring church yard a tombstone was erected to his memory. But perhaps the smouldering pile of debris, from which his charred remains were recovered next morning, were a fitter memorial to the manner of his death, than the most imposing mausoleum Trinidad could afford. F.A.C.

Prizes Offered for Prose and Poetry

MR. DENNIS' LETTER

Dr. Archibald MacMechan,
Professor of English Literature,
Dalhousie University, Halifax.

Dear Dr. MacMechan:

The writer has thought for some time that he would like to provide one or two annual prizes in Dalhousie University, open to the undergraduates in all the faculties and of a character that would arouse wide interest and perhaps develop a new field. For that purpose my inclination is to favor the Department of English Literature because I consider it the most important in the university. It therefore appears to me that the writing of poetry and essays should be more encouraged, and to that end I would like to offer an annual sum of $600.00—to be divided equally in one or more prizes, as you may determine, for poems and essays, the names of the winners to be published each year with the Convocation announcements. My suggestion is that the one shall be known as "The Joseph Howe English Prize Poem," and the other "The James De Mille English Prize Essay." I would also suggest that the poem may be of any kind and of any length and that any competitor may submit more than one. I would suggest that the prize essay may be of any length between 4000 and 6000 words and on any literary, historical or philosophical topic. The writer would be pleased if a short story (fiction) could be included for this prize. I desire that a high standard must be reached before a prize shall be awarded in either class, and that in any year when a prize is not awarded the equivalent sum shall be used for the purchase of books for the University Library, under the direction of the President and the head of the Department of English Literature.

It will be following custom, I believe, that the poem and essays or stories which win prizes shall become the exclusive property of the University. That being so, I desire to make it a condition that such poems and essays or stories shall be offered first for publication, free of charge, to the Editor of the Dalhousie Review.

It is my intention at a later date to establish a permanent endowment for this fund.

I trust that this proposal will prove acceptable to the Senate and Board of Governors and that the prizes will be available of during the present College year.

I shall be interested to see the rules governing these prizes, if accepted, when they are drawn up.

Yours faithfully,

W. H. DENNIS.

THE SYDNEY POST OFFERS ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS IN PRIZES

There is much that is interesting in the history of Cape Breton and Eastern Nova Scotia.

Portugese and Spaniards, French and British fished in their waters, explored their shores and later settled about their harbors.

Still later, France made Cape Breton a sentinel in the gateway of the St. Lawrence, and thus kept control of the vast territories between its possessions in Canada and its settlements on the Mississippi.

An expedition from New England captured Louisburg and held it until the signing of peace. In 1758, a greater expedition took it from the French and incorporated it within the Empire.

Later under British rule, Acadians came to various places in the Island; Loyalists settled here; Highland Scots and Irish found here fairer opportunities than in the land they had left; the "bourgeois" from Jersey set up their fishing establishments; hardy pioneers of civilization, endured hardships, performed great feats, had thrilling adventure during those long years of achievement.

The main story has been written, among others, by Brown, Bourinot, McDonald and McLennan, but there are countless tales of thrilling interest which have not been preserved, and these ought to be kept in remembrance.

The Sydney Post, to encourage the recording of these fine deeds, for the best contributions on the history of a parish, a district, or some striking incident in connection therewith, the life of some striking personality—not Giant McAskill—some tale of adventure, or other matter dealing with the past history of the Island of Cape Breton and The Counties of Guysboro and Antigonish, offers the following prizes: first prize, $50.00; second prize, $30.00; third prize, $20.00; all contributions must be received by May 1st.

Originality and interest of the subject chosen, clearness and style will be the most important factors in determining the awards.

The Post reserves the right to publish the prize winning essays.

No prize will be awarded unless, in the opinion of the Judges, the essays which are submitted possess sufficient merit.

WAR BOOKS FOR THE LIBRARY

Mr. Pearson's good suggestion and example regarding books on the Great War for the Library have borne fruit already.

Judge Russell writes: "I have a number of war books not mentioned in Mr. Pearson's list in 'The Alumni News', and which I am certain I shall never wish to read again. Would they be accepted as an addition to the nucleus?"

They would, and they were.

Major Crowe writes: "I am making up a box of war books and some others which I hope to have sent you within a few weeks."

Mr. G. S. Campbell, chairman of the Board of Governors, also approves of the idea and is contributing a number of valuable books on the subject.

So has Mr. Hector McInnes, Governor, Alumnus and constant friend of the Little College.

Who will be the next contributor?

DALHOUSIE LOSES TO DARTMOUTH, 4-3

Fabie Bates played without his cap on Friday, with the result that Dalhousie dropped her first game in the City Hockey League to Dartmouth, by a score of 4 to 3. It was indeed a heart-breaking game to lose, easily the fastest in the league so far, and in it the Tiger team as a whole showed up better than ever before this winter. The ice was nearly perfect, and nearly four thousand frenzied fans turned out to see the two speediest team in the league in action.

Dal started slow in the opening spasm, while the trans-harborites, led by George Dunn, last year with Dalhousie, made every effort to pile up a commanding lead. They bombarded the old Duke from every angle, and at last Dunn slipped one behind his former teammate. Before the end of the period Beasley made it 2 for the Blue and White. The Tigers gave Guinon in the Dartmouth nets a chance to make a few stops in this period, but did not break into the scoring column. In the second period they came back strong, and Art Lilly gave the Dal followers a chance to cut loose when he waded through, and scored the first for the collegians.

With the score 2 to 1 against them, the followers of Duke opened up in the first part of the final stanza, and for 15 minutes had the edge on their opponents. Fabie Bates, who was being watched closer than a convicted kleptomaniac, managed to elude his guards long enough to get away a wicked shot from outside the defecce which the former Truronian in the Dartmouth nets never saw. "Bricky" Dunn had met with a distressing accident, more distressing to his pride than his person, and was relieved by Tommy Horsler. Hallisey here cut short the joy of the Tiger followers when he ambled through the Dal defence and put his team once more in the lead. It looked as though the game was lost for good, but the Tigers stuck and a minute or so later Horsler skated up the side, passed to Fabie, who bulged the twine for the nearest goal of the game. With only three minutes to go, it looked like overtime. It was reserved for George Dunn however to shatter the hopes of his former Alma Mater when he took a pass close in on the Duke and whipped it behind the Dal captain. The Tigers fought desperately for the equaliser but the time was too short, the final score standing 4 to 3 for Dartmouth.

The game was exceedingly clean, only one man from each side being given an enforced rest. Despite the loss of the game, practically all of the Dal players showed up better than ever before, and with good ice this Friday the return game ought to be a thriller. Zinck of the regular intermediate defence was given a try out on the defence and with a little more experience promises to make good. Horsler was the only forward sub used, and was exceedingly aggressive.

The Intermediate Tigers partly retrieved the defeat of their senior classmates when they won from the Dartmouth aggregation 2 to 0. The first goal took just six seconds to score, from the face-off. Allen Dunlop was the pick of the bunch and scored the only other goal on a nice individual rush. Captain Lougheed handled what came his way in his usual cool and deliberative fashion.

DAL. 7; KINGS 3.

The Dalhousie Intercollegiate team, minus Lilly "et al," journeyed to Windsor on Wednesday, and there won from the "Oldest University" in an intercollegiate fixture by a score of 7 to 3. The Tigers had most of their yearlings in action, supplemented by the great McIsaac in goal and Dr. Smith on defence. Led by Bricky Dunn the forwards piled up a 4 to 0 score in the first, increased it to 6 to 1 in the second and slowed up a bit in the final spasm. The Kingsmen worked hard, had probably as many shots on goal as did Dal, but could not penetrate "the icicle" except for the above mentioned three.

The boys who made the trip all report a good time, and were well looked after by the Kings management. After the game, an informal dance took place in Convocation Hall, at which the Duke and Bricky were particularly prominent. Allen Dunlop showed up only for the game being apparently engaged elsewhere. The following players represented Dalhousie:—McIsaac, Dunlop, Zinck, Smith, Dunn, Beaton, Horsler, Hickey, Jerrett. Timekeeper, A. R. Baird; goal judge, Dr. A. R. Reid; acting manager, J. A. Dunlop.

BASKETBALL:

Wanderers, 40; Dal, 34.

TIGERS TRIM HALF MOONS 5-1.

Dalhousie won two games on Tuesday, January 24; they re-won in the committee room the game, they had already won from the Wanderers, on the ice; and that same evening took the Crescents into camp by a 5 to 1 score. The ice was fast, in fact almost too fast, for all except one Fabie Bates who ran amuck and scored 4 out of the 5 Dalhousie goals, his team mate and room mate Roe McKenna getting the other.

The Crescents drew first blood, with the Tigers as usual going slow in the opening stages. However, before the end of the period Bates ran through a couple of times, and put the Gold and Black in the lead. The second and third periods saw fast hockey, with the Dal forwards outskating their rivals and "Duke" stopping with ease all that came his way.

The intermediate game which was almost as fast as the first was finally won by the Crescents, 2 goals to 1.

BASKETBALL

Wanderers Win Over Dal 40-34.

Failure to find the basket in the closing minutes of the game, enabled the Red and Black basketweavers to triumph over their old time opponents—Dalhousie, on Saturday night by a score of 40 to 34. Captain Coster's crew, wearing their new outfits started off well and ran up quite a lead, which, however, Pacey and McCoy overcame before the end of the first period. The score at half time stood 24 to 21 for the Wanderers.

In the second period, the Dal combination got working, but none of the forwards seemed able to cage the ball, while their opponents seemed singularly lucky in this regard, scoring three in a row. Led by "Red" Grant, their lofty centre, the Tigers staged an offensive in the last few minutes and annexed three baskets. But it was too late. Mader, generally top scorer for Dal played only a short time as he was hurt early in the game. The largest crowd of the year was in attendance, and the rooting was intense. Dal had her usual team on the floor except Ferguson as follows. Guards, Coster and McNeil; centre, "Red" Grant; forwards, Muir, Mader, Wilson and Miller.

LAW, 5; DENTS, 0.

Law defeated Dentistry in their first game of the Interfaculty league by a score of 5 goals to 0. In fairness to the losers, it must be stated that they were without the services of their two best men, Dunlop and Beaton, who were that night, representing the University against Kings College at Windsor. The newspaper account that stated that Law first sent "the best part of the Dental team to Windsor and then staged the interfaculty game" is absolutely inaccurate. The interfaculty schedule had been drawn up long before.

Jones, on the forward line, McGuire on defence and Lougheed in goal were the shining lights for the Lawyers, while Somers and Dexter did some good work for the "extractors." Tonight Law will meet Medicine in what promises to be the "big affair" of the year. The game will commence at sharp seven o'clock, so be there on time to root for your faculty.

STOP PRESS

Dalhousie plays Dartmouth again on Friday night. The game will be close and Captain Duke MacIsaac wants every Dal supporter out to help his team win.

Final trials for the Intercollegiate Debate at the School for the Blind Thursday night, February 2nd. The following will take part. M. C. MacDonald; J. H. MacFadden; L. W. Fraser; A. G. MacKinnon; I. K. Forsythe; J. A. Forbes; H. Norton; S. Gilchrist.

Bill Gunn's "scintillating sextette" of Arts '22 suffered an eclipse at the hands of Arts '24 on Saturday, when they were on the short end of a 3 to 1 score. "Lack of condition" Bill says "and too late hours."

THE MARLBOROUGH

Since the festive occasion at this mansion everyone has been very quiet and subdued refraining from partaking in the usual festivities of the outer world except for the occasional skate in the rink, especially on "Dal" night, when one would be doubtful whether it could be called a skate or not; such difficulties were experienced by the seekers of amusement that they returned vowing that never again would they try skating on "Dal" night. However, with the sudden change of weather for the colder perhaps such vows will be retracted and again the Marlboro, in a body will arrive at the Arena to return in the same company.

Quite the topic under discussion now is "whom shall I ask to the Delta Gamma dance?" because this is the only chance for the smile of approval from the fair sex.

MOCK PARLIAMENT

While the country's business is in the most chaotic state in the nation's history, at the time of this writing the cabinet personnel of Dalhousie was still unannounced. Each party blames the other for the endless delay, and charges and counter-charges of further manipulation and log-rolling have been hurled back and forth for weeks. Almost everybody wants a job, and the leaders of the three parties don't know where they stand in the matter of support from one hour to another. The Gazette, at great expense, however, and with a spirit of enterprise never equalled by any paper in the history of journalism, is able to state with practical certainty, tho unofficially, that the Liberals under R. M. Fielding will have a government formed before this appears in print, and the cabinet slate will be very much like the following, that is to say:

Premier, minister of external affairs and president of the council—R. M. Fielding, member for Rockingham.

Minister of Finance—J. R. Nicholson, member for Newcastle.

Minister of Public Works—Dudley F. McGeer, member for Centre Vancouver.

Minister of Railways and Canals—G. C. Macleod, member for West Toronto.

Minister of National Defence—J. L. M. White, member for Halifax.

Minister of D. S. C. R. and Health—J. F. Macneill, member for Moncton.

Minister of Justice—W. C. Dunlop, member for Cumberland.

Secretary of State—C. B. McAskill, member for Cape Breton.

Postmaster-general—C. R. Beazley, member for Halifax.

Minister of Marine and Fisheries—S. M. Zinck, member for Lunenburg.

Minister of Agriculture—A. W. Murray, member for Annapolis.

Minister of the Interior—M. C. Langwith, member for South Winnipeg.

Minister of Inland Revenue—J. E. C. Haslam, member for Montreal.

Solicitor-general—R. McCall, member for Pictou.

Minister of Customs—James K. Hackett, member for West Calgary.

Minister of Labor—Not yet decided.

Minister of Immigration—Not yet decided.

Minister of Trade and Commerce—Henry Wickwire.

Mr. Fielding found himself well supplied with cabinet timber, though several leading Liberals, such as W. A. Livingstone, K. L. Crowell, R. M. Palmer and G. R. Ramey, declined to accept a cabinet post, but will give the administration hearty support.

It is probable that Mr. Crowell will move the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

It is said that there has been considerable manoeuvring during the past week as to who will be leader of the official opposition, J. F. Mahoney of the Conservatives, or L. D. Currie, of the Progressives.

The policy of Canada, recently inaugurated, to have a representative at Washington, will be enlarged upon, it is understood. We must have a minister to Panama, and Mr. Crowell is prominently mentioned, though he says he doesn't like the hot summers down there, but the Government can find him a summer job in the Yukon. Eric Jerrett is after the post of ambassador to Newfoundland, and E. L. Cross wants a similar position in the West Indies. All of these have been staunch supporters of the Liberal party. The ambassadorship to Russia may yet be filled by Mr. Currie.

The Gazette, we feel assured, is the first paper to announce some of the legislation which is likely to be introduced at the coming epochal session. Some of the bills proposed, with the members introducing them, follow:

An act to amend an act to regulate dances and dancing—Mr. Dunlop.

An act to provide for more conveniences for the members of the house—Mr. Macneill.

An act to propagate actions of divorce in Canada—The Premier.

An act to compel all Law students to pay up their Society fees—The Minister of Finance.

An act to cut out work on public work—The Minister of Public Works.

An act to provide for free transportation for Government supporters—The Minister of Railways and Canals.

An act to provide free postage for Government supporters—The P.M.G.

An act to make fish of one and flesh of another—The Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

An act to farm the farmers—The minister of agriculture.

An act to provide certain necessities for Government supporters gratis—The Minister of Inland Revenue.

An act to make bad habits illegal—The Minister of Customs.
