

SANDRA BARRY is a poet and free-lance researcher and writer currently working on a critical monograph about Elizabeth Bishop's Nova Scotian inheritance.

JEFFERY DONALDSON teaches modern poetry and American literature at McMaster University. His poems and essays have appeared in such journals as Grand Street, The Paris Review, Partisan Review and The Yale Review. His first book of poems, Once Out of Nature, was published by McClelland and Stewart in 1991.

BERNICE FRIESEN lives in Saskatoon. Beginning her creative career as a printmaker and painter, she switched to the literary arts four years ago. Her work has been published in Grain, NeWest Review, Prairie Fire and other magazines. She has completed a collection of young adult fiction, and is now working on novels.

HEATHER GARDAM lives on Saltspring Island, British Columbia. A former teacher, she recently completed a second BA in the Creative Writing program at the University of Victoria. She is writing poetry and short fiction and has published two non-fiction articles.

JONATHAN HART teaches English and Comparative Literature at the University of Alberta. He is the author of Theatre and World: the Problematics of Shakespeare's History (Northeastern University Press) and Northrop Frye: the Theoretical Imagination (Routledge) and is the co-editor (with Richard Bauman) of Explorations of Difference: Law, Culture and Politics (University of Toronto Press) and the editor of Reading the Renaissance: Culture, Poetics and Drama (forthcoming).

JULIE LEIBRICH lives at Raumati Beach in New Zealand. She was born in England in 1947. She is a research psychologist and has published a book on crime, Straight to the Point: Angles on Giving Up Crime (Otago University Press). She began writing poetry in 1993 when she won an award in a national competition. Her poetry has been published by journals in New Zealand, England and Canada.

RICHARD LEMM 's biography of Milton Acorn is scheduled to be published this year. His latest book, Prelude to the Bacchanal (Ragweed, 1990), won the Canadian Authors' Association Award for poetry. He teaches English at the University of Prince Edward Island.

FRANK MacKINNON is Professor Emeritus of political science at the University of Calgary, former principal of Prince of Wales College in Charlottetown. He is past president of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council and past president of the Institute of Public Administration of Canada.

RICHARD MYERS is Associate Professor and Chair in the Department of Political Science at St. Thomas University. He has published articles on various political philosophers, including Rousseau, Herodotus, Montesquieu, and de Tocqueville. Dr. Myers is also a co-author of a Liberal Education: A Guide for the New Student, forthcoming from New Ireland Press in the Summer of 1995.

KATHLEEN NICASTRO was born in Rochester, New York. In 1989, she immigrated to Canada, and now makes her home in Hamilton, Ontario. "Death's Day Off" is the title story from a recently completed collection of stories. Though she has published poems in the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada, this is her first piece of fiction to appear in print.

HAROLD SKULSKY teaches in Northampton, Massachussetts. He was raised in Brooklyn and educated at schools in New York and Massachussetts.

E. RUSSELL SMITH is active with Ottawa Independent Writers when not walking through Algonquin Park with a canoe over his head. Toronto born, he was educated at the universities of Ottawa, McGill and Cambridge. His poetry and stories have been published in journals across Canada and in the United Kingdom. His work last appeared in the Dalhousie Review vol. 70 no. 3 (Fall 1990). A collection of short stories, Trippers' Tales appeared in 1991 (General Store Publishing House).