

HUMANITIES

Grammar Lessons

Stroke is a verb
Stroke is a noun

The word implies an action
or a thing
Discussed like it's tangible but it's a deficit
A lack of blood
- insufficient funds to the brain

You can stroke
You can have a stroke
Acute ischemic stroke
Stroke out
He's stroking

Shit – he's stroking!

Aphasic
Bradycardic
Emesis
Limp limbs from hemiparesis
Unconscious
Fibrinolytic checklists
Inject the thrombolytic

Stroke is a verb.
Stroke is a noun.

Sarah Fraser
Class of 2014,
Faculty of Medicine,
Dalhousie University