

Anne Compton is an Islander, mother of two sons, Aaron and Quentin. She is writing a doctoral thesis on A.J.M. Smith.

Kenna Creer Manos teaches English at the Nova Scotia College of Art and Design. She has published articles in Arts Atlantic and poetry in Queens Quarterly.

Mary Daly is the author of many important books on feminism.

Judith Fingard teaches in the History Department at Dalhousie.

Cecelia Frey is completing an M.A. thesis at the University of Calgary on the poetry of Eli Mandel. She is the author of a novel, Breakaway, and a collection of poetry, the least you can do is sing.

Leona Gom lived for twenty years on a remote farm in Alberta's Peace River country. She has published four books of poetry and is the editor of the literary magazine event. Currently she lives and works in Surrey, B.C.

Carol Halstead lives in Burnaby, B.C. She has had poems published by event, Atlantis, West Coast Review.

Pat Jasper directs the Axle-Tree Coffee House in Toronto and is the author of a number of volumes of poetry.

Wendy R. Katz teaches English at St. Mary's University, Halifax. She has published in the areas of children's literature, women's studies, Victorian literature.

Janice Kulyk-Keefer is currently working on a study of Canadian maritime fiction, courtesy of an SSHRCC postdoctoral fellowship which she holds in affiliation with Université Sainte-Anne. Her article "Mavis Gallant and the Angel of History" is forthcoming in The University of Toronto Quarterly.

Shreela Ray lives in Rochester and is the author of several books of poetry.

Rose Rosberg is the author of Trips—Without LSD (Fiddlehead). Her poems have recently appeared in The Crescent Review, Descant, Queens Quarterly.

Sheila Rowbotham lives in London and has written widely on a range of feminist subjects.

Kay Ryan lives near San Francisco, and teaches writing at the College of Marin and at San Quentin Prison. A volume of her poetry will be published by Brown University's Copper Beech Press.

Susan Sherwin chairs and teaches in the Philosophy Department at Dalhousie.

Kay Stockholder teaches in the English Department at the University of British Columbia.

Marjorie Stone teaches in the English Department at Dalhousie.

Linda Woodbridge is Professor of English at the University of Alberta, author of Women and the English Renaissance (1984), and mother of two school-age daughters who have participated in many science fairs.