

WILSON, BARBARA THOMPSON

IN MEMORIAM

Barbara Thompson Wilson, organist, harpsichordist and artist, died on Monday, June 25, surrounded by family, at home in Halifax. Her husband David says it was very peaceful, and that, having organized everything, she felt she could go! Her service will be just as she planned it. Friday, June 29, at St. James Anglican Church (at the Rotary, it's the one up at the side that isn't Bethany United!), at 7:30 p.m.

As part of the service there will be four movements of the Vivaldi Gloria sung with orchestra -- anyone wishing to sing in the chorus please arrive for a rehearsal from 5 to 6 p.m.

Barbara Wilson was the wife of Dalhousie Music Department founder, long time faculty member and first Department Chair, Professor David Wilson.
