Calony Oct 6th

Dear Sir

I regretted in calling on you that we unfortunately paid our visit when you were from home. Ellen and a Scotch lady accompanied me, we had been calling in the neighbourhood of your square, and had promised ourselves the pleasure of congratulating you on your return to Avon. From the contents of the Note with which you favoured me in the evening, I rather suspect you placed our visit to the more of curiosity, and not as it was intended to the Guardian for Boston the "Prayer" of the Kinder-Divinitie. I was aware from Mary that you had consigned the care of them to a friend during your absence, and that you had not again received them to your

I particularly regretted you were so far unwilling as to be fearful of venturing to Exeter at the time of the performance of the Latin play you would have it was the Mercurius of London This Morning part of the 29th is considered to give an impartial paragraph on the performance of it the three public nights were as you may easily imagine a very confused busy period I went to town on the Saturday following and remained until Thursday, as I am reproached by Dr. Micholus with a quant disposition I do not expect to return to it again for some time, when that occurs I shall feel much pleasure in an opportunity of paying my respects in that expection I remain Dr. Sir with esteem

Your Obedient Son
