EDITORIAL.

The first issue of the Dalhousie Gazette for the coming year comes from the press under the control of a new editor, Mr. Bentley, the editor of last year having resigned the position as his intentions are to pursue the study of agriculture at the Nova Scotia Agricultural College. It is with feelings of modesty, humbleness and fear, because of his shortcomings in this matter that the new incumbent takes up the mantle thrown from the shoulders of the retiring Editor. It is with no feeling of levity or humor that the task is begun, for having been associated with Mr. Bentley in the work of last year, there is knowledge of the tedious work which must be done before the Gazette is ushered into the world at Studley or the Forrest Building. To make a success of the Gazette there must be co-operation on the part of every student in Dalhousie and especially those who have the interests of the College paper at heart. On those who are not directly interested lies the task of reading the Gazette and of demanding that they get a Gazette to read, a task which we sincerely hope will not be an unpleasant one. On those who are directly interested lies the burden of providing sufficient material for the Editor that the Gazette may appear as often as is deemed advisable. At certain times in the past Gazettes have been published written almost entirely by the student in charge, and although one may admire the ability of such a man, yet there is lack of interest because of sameness of material in each issue. Then again, it is no easy task for the editor to conjure up articles of interest to the student body and granted that he should write the Editorials and serious articles, still it is hardly fair to expect him to go further and write a newspaper. Therefore, with this issue the Editor pleads for co-operation, the arch-stone of success. For co-operation we beg, and having obtained it, then it will be our endeavor to maintain the standard set during the past year and to make the Dalhousie Gazette the mouthpiece of this University in literary efforts.

THE RETIRING EDITOR.

Every Dalhousian will regret the departure from our midst of Mr. Bentley, B.A., who goes to Truro to enter the N.S.A.C. Jack, as he was affectionately called by those who knew him well, took over the Gazette from Mr. Mitchell of the Morning Chronicle Staff, who, far from the well-known halls of Dalhousie, was doing his best to prevent the Gazette from going to an untimely death. Certain students, realizing that interest in the Gazette would be revived if the Editor-in-Chief were appointed from among the students in attendance at the university, agitated a new appointment. It was understood that Mr. Mitchell was agreed to this proposition as enabling him to resign a duty which could hardly be called a pleasant task due to his lack of touch with student life.

The matter was taken up by the University Students Council of last year and Mr. Bentley was selected as the new Editor-in-Chief. With the first issue it was apparent that the choice was a wise one and everybody commented favorably on the tone of the Editorials and the interesting articles which from time to time filled the columns of the weekly issue. We can but regret his going and we take this means to express to him the thanks of the Gazette readers of last year for his brilliant articles on International politics, Canadian affairs and the internal matters of our everyday University life. We wish him continued success in his future work and beg of him that sometime when the "farm chores" are done and leisure has been granted to the weary farmer, then he shall take down his stylus and describe to us his life on Bible Hill. And may that life be both full of pleasure and of profit.

A FELLOWSHIP AT HARVARD.

An English weekly comments cordially on the inauguration of a fellowship at Harvard founded in honor of the late Joseph H. Choate. It has been decided by the members of the Harvard Club of New York to endow Harvard with forty thousand or more dollars, the yearly income of which shall be enjoyed by a British subject coming from Cambridge, England, to study at Harvard. The fellowship in memory of Mr. Choate is particularly appropriate and acceptable to the British as Mr. Choate was a tremendous believer in Anglo-American friendship and did much while he was American Ambassador to the Court of St. James to cement the friendship between the two nations. The information regarding the foundation may be found in "The Law Times" for Aug. 23, 1919 at p. 308, in the Law Library.

OUR PRESIDENT AT QUEENS.

At the installation on October 16th, inst, of Dr. R. Bruce Taylor as Principal and E. W. Beatty K.C. President of the Canadian Pacific Railway as Chancellor of Queens University, Kingston, Ontario, our own President, Dr. A. S. MacKenzie received the degree of L.L.D. Among the other recipients of the same degree were F. D. Adams, acting Principal of McGill; Sir Robert Falconer, University of Toronto; Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, the new leader of the Liberal Party of Canada, Professor Stephen Leacock, McGill University; Hon Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor in the present Dominion Cabinet, the man who rode the gale of the Winnipeg strike fairly successfully; and Miss A. E. Marty of the Board of Education, Toronto City. There were in all twenty two degrees conferred, by far the greater number going to Heads and Deans of Universities. Those who have been mentioned in this article have been singled out because they are men of distinction and fame in Canada, whom every Canadian should know about. The congratulations of the Gazette and student body are extended to President MacKenzie for the new honor just received by him.

DO YOU WANT TO WIN TEN DOLLARS?

Your editor had an interesting talk with Mr. G. Fred. Pearson last week, regarding things pertaining to the interest of all Dalhousians. I suppose you know that Dalhousie intends to conduct a campaign for a million dollars sometime in the near future. With this end in view, a committee has been formed called the "Dalhousie Million Committee". After hard thinking the committee hit upon a slogan for the campaign. It is "Dalhousie Needs a Million; a Million Need Dalhousie" the last million referring to the population of the Maritime Provinces. The Committee are not quite sure that they have the best slogan in existence but it was the best one they could suggest during the time they worked upon it. However, they are willing that the students should have a try at making a slogan for the campaign and through this article they offer a prize of ten dollars to any student who will send to the "Million" committee a slogan better than the one which has been adopted by them so far. This offer does not necessarily imply that the prize winning slogan will be adopted instead of the present one but it does mean that someone will win ten dollars if they can produce a slogan better than the one at present suggested. Now then, boys and girls altogether. At least twenty-five slogans should be sent in before the offer closes. The offer will remain open for two weeks after the publication of this Gazette, and all communications should be addressed to the Editor of the Gazette at Studley who will in turn hand them over to Mr. Pearson.

LETTER FROM THE "MILLION" COMMITTEE.

Fellow Dalhousians:

It is just a little more than a month since many of you were in Halifax to help celebrate the Centenary of Dalhousie. It is the purpose of this letter to recall to your minds what you saw and heard there, and also to bespeak your continued interest in your Alma Mater.

You saw that the old college had remained steadfast to its ideals, and that it was preparing even then to undertake a greater measure of responsibility for the higher education of our young people than it had in the past. You heard the story of what Dalhousie has done from many eloquent lips. You looked into the faces of the professors who had lectured to you, and at you, in the good old days, and then you did not withhold the grateful tear

For those, and for their works, who are not here."

To those of us who live in Halifax and have some responsibility for the present conduct of your university, your presence was a great delight, your sympathy a blessed thing, and your college spirit an inspiration. We felt that no college could have a more loyal following among its old students than ours, and so it is that I am today presenting to you an opportunity for service in the name and cause of Dalhousie.

In many respects, the university is entering upon its most critical period. "All that is human must regress if it does not advance." Dalhousie must go forward. But even if that was not considered desirable the fact is that she cannot stand still. Her finances will not permit even that. She must have substantial additions made to her endowment funds to enable her to deal tardy justice to that devoted band of professors who with their predecessors in office have given Dalhousie her place "in the Sun." She must have additional buildings to house some of our girls and boys—"the best student material in the world." She must have at least one more academic building and that right away.

Next spring, the friends of Dalhousie will be asked for $1,000,000 to enable the university to satisfy these vitally necessary needs. A campaign committee has been appointed to organize for the work. Will you assist, wherever you may be, in the manner in which you think you can be of most service? If so, please let me hear from you at your earliest convenience.

Faithfully yours,
The Dalhousie "Million" Committee.
G. Fred Pearson.

IMPRESSIONS OF HALIFAX.

It is asked that I give my impressions of Halifax. Impressions in a three day visit cannot be very significant. Still, they are all that the traveller has, and when a visit is on a particular occasion, perhaps they may be somewhat more nearly in accordance with facts than were one merely a tourist.

I was much interested in the work going on towards reconstructing the part of the city destroyed in the disaster two years ago. The plans are most intelligent and far-sighted and are being carried out with very well-directed energy. The result cannot fail to be a large contribution towards a new and beautiful Halifax. It is a pity that some American cities could not have used similar wisdom in their reconstruction.

Dalhousie University has a fine tradition, a good body of instruction and an admirable plan for material development. The students seem to be strong and serious, yet with all the wholesome spontaneity of youth. They have not been softened, apparently, by luxury that accompanies needless wealth—a very great advantage in the strenuous days which are to come. In every way the institution is one of which the city and the province have just reason for pride, and I am sure that there will be steady and generous support given in all its plans for growth.

The natural advantages of the port and of the site of Halifax are obvious and beyond dispute. It is a natural gateway to the Dominion, and there is no reason why in coming years it should not have the picturesque of Quebec, the business energy of Montreal and the intellectual atmosphere of Edinburgh.

The charming hospitality of Halifax needs no words of appreciation—because mere words cannot do it justice. It will long be in the memory of the visitor.

CLASS EIGHTEEN CORN BOIL.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the Centenary week was the Corn Boil given by Class '18 to the members of the other classes.

The students of whom there were a goodly number met at the Birchdale at 7.30 Saturday evening and then proceeded by motor boat to the Dingle. Here under the supervision of "Dennis" a fire was started and the pot of corn placed thereon. Everything went along nicely—for awhile. Then without a moment's warning the pot of corn upset and down the hill the cobs rolled. Unlike the rolling stone they gathered moss among other things. "Dennis" cast a piercing glance at "Shakespeare" but that gentleman refused to take the blame and without stopping to argue made a rush after the rolling corn. These he gathered up and after washing them in butter pronounced them fit for consumption. Needless to say no time was lost by those present.

After the "feast" the various class yells were given which certainly pierced the stillness of the beautiful night. Then came the old Dal. songs.

At 10.30 the boats called and the happy party returned homeward.

CLASS '21.

Class '21 held their first social event of the year on Friday the 17th of October. The event took the form of a dance held in the Munro Room and a most enjoyable evening was spent by the threescore young people who attended.

The intention was to have had a walking-party to be followed by a dance, but, owing to the inclemency of the weather, it was found more advisable to change the programme to dancing alone. This change was greeted with enthusiastic approval by those who are followers of the Terpsichorean art.

The success of the evening was due, to a large extent, to the splendid music rendered by Miss Inglis and also to the presence of the chaperons, Miss Devine and Mrs. Henry. Class '21 extends to them many thanks for their presence.

THE LAW SOCIETY.

A meeting of the Law Society took place on Thursday October 16, for the purpose of reorganization and statement of its plans throughout the year. The meeting was splendidly attended. The President, Mr. V. C. MacDonald occupied the chair and spoke concerning the aim and purposes of the Law Society. A new Secretary and Treasurer were elected and it was decided to revive and boom both the Mock Parliament and the Moot Court. Suggestions were also made that this year the Law Students hold their own social functions. The Mock Parliament and Moot Court will begin at the end of the foot ball period and it is hoped that this year will see Law in its old place as one of the most important faculties in the University.

THOUGHTS DURING EXAMINATIONS

With apologies to the author of the Hymn.

Unto the walls around do I lift up
My longing eyes.
O whence for me shall inspiration come,
From whence arise?
My memory should hasten to my aid,
But will not tell me how my marks are made.

THE DALHOUSIE GAZETTE

It will not suffer that my pen be moved,
Still will it be.
As yet, no bright spot gleams in memory's groove,
Nor aideth me.
Behold my pen! the poor thing moveth ne'er,
And soileth not the paper 'neath its care.

My memory is still a "Jonah" true,
A changeless shade.
So far, naught but the title, name and date,
My pen has made.
It seems to me that I shall never write,
Although I sit and think from now till night.

It seems my answers are, I am quite sure,
Not worth a pin.
Although I think, ideas are going out,
Not coming in.
And all my Profs, whose subjects I abhor
Will never pass me, now or evermore.

A JOYFUL OUTING.

After having been postponed for various reasons—mostly on account of the weather—the PICNIC was held at the Dartmouth Lakes on Tuesday, Oct. 7th.

At 6.30 p.m., a large number of students crossed on the ferry to our enterprising eastern capital. Thence we walked to the Banook Club and proceeded by motorboat to Mr. Eisnor's cottage on the Lake. Here some of the more enthusiastic gathered wood and started a huge bonfire while others collected around the fire in the cottage. After refreshments had been served the majority of those present gathered around the bonfire and sang the good old Dal songs led by Ray Smith who was ably assisted by Messrs. Roome, Scott, and Mackenzie.

While those who were at the bonfire were enjoying themselves a few found their way to the cottage and danced the hours away.

There is one question which remains unsolved and that is who hid Dr. N-ch-l-s-n's Son's chocolates? Don't tell anyone, Bob.

About 11 p.m. the boats called for us and we started on our way home. We caught the 11.30 ferry and returned to the City, after having spent a most enjoyable evening thanks to the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Eisnor and Mrs. Campbell.

A DALHOUSIE SONG.

The following are the words of a song brought back by the Dal. delegation to the Brome Lake Conference in 1918. Get the air from some one who knows it. It's a good one!

My girl's a cracker-jack,
She wears the Gold and Black,
She goes to Dalhousie,
I go there too—oo—oo—oo.
And in my future life
She's going to be my wife.
"How in the world did you find that out?"
She told me so!

She goes to all the games
With all the other janes,
I supply all the change,
I go there too—oo—oo—oo;
And in my future life
etc.

When I get older,
Then I'll grow bolder,
And I will hold her
Close to my sho-o-oulder;
And in my future life
etc.

L.L.D. GIVEN TO THREE MEMBERS OF MEDICAL AND DENTAL FACULTY.

At the convocation held during the centennial celebrations, the University conferred the degree of L.L.D. on three members of its own leading staff: Dr. John Stewart, Professor of Surgery; Dr. Murdoch Chisholm, Professor of Clinical Surgery; and Dr. Frank Woodbury, Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry.

In presenting Dr. Stewart, Professor Fraser Harris said:

"Mr. President:—I have the honour to present to you for the Honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, John Stewart, Bachelor of Medicine and Master of Surgery of the University of Edinburgh, Doctor of Laws of the same University, and Doctor of Laws of MacCill University.

Dr. Stewart was born in Nova Scotia; but his ancestral home is in the Braes of Mar, a district in the Highlands of Scotland, celebrated alike for its wild beauty and for the devotion of its men to that Royal House which had the distinction to bear the name of Stewart.

Dr. Stewart had the privilege of being associated with a discovery which is one of the greatest glories of purely British achievement, antiseptic surgery, for at Edinburgh University he had Mr. Joseph Lister as his teacher in surgery, and later he acted as his resident in the wards of Kings College Hospital, London.

So well did Stewart commend himself to Mr., after Sir Joseph, later still Baron Lister, that he was pressed to accompany his master to London, where, with such an introduction to the capital, wealth, honours and all that is meant by professional success were abundantly assured to him.

Nevertheless Mr. Stewart decided otherwise; returning to this country he practised his profession for many years in the town of Pictou, but was in constant demand as a consulting surgeon throughout Nova Scotia.

It would be impossible to say whether Dr. Stewart was more beloved by his patients than respected by his brother practitioners.

In 1905 Dr. Stewart was elected President of the Canadian Medical Association, and at its meeting in Halifax he delivered a notable address.

Dr. Stewart has made valuable contributions to the literature of surgery, chiefly, as might be expected, to the subject of antiseptics, papers which are models of scientific writing in a style concise, vivid and chaste. In 1913 the University of Edinburgh conferred the Honorary degree of L.L.D. on its distinguished alumnus. When the Medical Council of Canada was constituted in 1912, Dr. Stewart was elected as one of the two representatives from this province. Dr. Stewart was one of the lecturers in the old Halifax Medical College; and at the out-break of the war, Professor of Surgery in this University. In December 1915, the Dalhousie University Hospital (Unit No. 7) went overseas with Lieutenant Colonel John Stewart as officer commanding; and it is betraying no secret to say that the personnel of that unit was largely determined by the personality of its commanding officer.

As was well said at the farewell dinner to the officers, this response to his country's call was the most appropriate act towards the close of a life lived in the public service.

Early this year, His Majesty the King inducted Dr. Stewart to the order of the British Empire.

It is most fitting that at such a time in our history the University should select Dr. John Stewart as one of the two medical men in Nova Scotia on whom she desires to bestow the highest honour in her gift.

Dr. Chisholm was presented by Professor MacMechan who read as follows:—"Mr. President:—The Senate is of the opinion that one of the senior members of our own Faculty of Medicine should be selected to be honored on this important epoch in the history of the University.

MURDOCH CHISHOLM, Doctor of Medicine and Master of Surgery of McGill University, and Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians of London, is one eminently worthy of receiving the highest honor which it is in our power to bestow.

There is no member of the Medical profession in all Nova Scotia more respected or more trusted than Dr. Chisholm. Although belonging no longer to a young man as years are counted, Dr. Chisholm's hand has lost none of its gentle skill; nor has his gentle spirit lost anything of its original freshness in its outlook upon life.

Dr. Chisholm is sought after throughout Nova Scotia as a consultant in surgical cases; and patient and practitioner are alike happy when it has been decided that 'Chisholm is going to take charge of the case.'

Descended from a Highland stock settled around the beautiful sea-lochs of Argyleshire, Dr. Chisholm has inherited not a little of the poetical temperament which is characteristic of the Celt.

As a teacher of clinical surgery, Dr. Chisholm has few equals; as an examiner in surgery he is eminently fair because so painstaking and sympathetic.

But Dr. Chisholm is known in other spheres than the Medical. As a reverent student of the Holy Scriptures he has made a special study of the problems of prophecy and its interpretation, and within the last year or so has published his views on these recondite subjects."

In presenting Dr. Woodbury, Dr. Harris said:—

"Mr. President:—The University has decided to request you to confer the degree of L.L.D. on the chief representative of a Faculty closely allied to that of Medicine, I mean the Faculty of Dentistry.

The University cannot forget the conspicuous services rendered to this our youngest Faculty by Dr. Frank Woodbury, the virtual founder of the School of Dentistry and one of its most devoted supporters.

As Dean of his Faculty, it is one of the Doctor's duties to present members of it for degrees; but as in this case the recipient is the Dean himself, he would have to act in two capacities at once—a position which is remotely comparable with that of a celebrated character in a popular drama who, as executioner, has to decapitate himself as criminal.

So outstanding have been Dr. Woodbury's services to the cause of the advancement of the Faculty of Dentistry that he has succeeded in raising it in the estimation of those best qualified to judge to a rank second to none in this wide Dominion. The Senate feels that the fact of his being one of themselves is no adequate reason for abstaining from recognizing the invaluable pioneer work in the academic interests of the profession of dentistry which he has for the last ten years carried on so energetically and so acceptably."

DR. FRASER HARRIS WINS PRIZE.

According to an announcement made at Ottawa, Dr. D. Fraser Harris, the popular professor of Histology in the Medical Faculty has been awarded second prize in a national literary competition, held under the auspices of the Arts and Letters Club of Ottawa. The competition was divided into two parts that of prose and of poetry. It is in the division of prose that Prof. Harris won his prize, his essay being entitled "Edinburgh Society at the Close of the Eighteenth Century". The prize was donated by the Musson Book Company. The Gazette offers its heartiest congratulations to Professor Harris on his success in the realm of literature.

REAL LIVING.

(From Halifax Chronicle.)

Do you have the proper attitude towards things in general, and particularly towards your work? Two years ago a New York university produced a student who carried everything before him alike as a scholar, an athlete and a leader of the student body. He was, on top of all this, voted the most popular man of his year. His record was so extraordinary that a writer for Forbes Magazine asked him to come and tell him how he had done it. He found him an upstanding, clean-cut, alert, ambitious young fellow. He said that most young men regarded their years at college simply as preliminary to their life's work, whereas his reasoning was that his four years at college were just as much a part of his life and his career as any subsequent period could be. He made up his mind, therefore, to develop the best that was in him and to live a full, well-rounded, dynamically active life all through his college course. He did not put off doing this, that or the next thing until tomorrow or after he went out into the business world. He was convinced that the showing he made at college, not merely as a student, but as a man, would be and should be taken into account when he came to make his way afterwards. Besides, he felt that he owed it to himself to put forth whole-hearted effort in every phase of college activities.—Forbes Magazine.

ENGINEERING NOTES.

The Dalhousie Engineering Society begins the college year with the record membership of almost sixty.

A new departure for this term will be the holding of meetings in the Munro Room on alternate Mondays.

Watch the notice boards for particulars concerning the name of lecturer and subject of address. A good programme is being arranged for the year.

The first meeting of the Dalhousie Engineering Society for this term was held in the Physics Lecture Room on Oct. 7th at twelve noon. The resignation of Mr. C. F. Bowes as Secy.-Treas. necessitated the election of a successor. Mr. A. A. Turnbull, '18, was chosen to fill this position. On account of the much increased membership it was decided to increase the executive by two additional members. Mr. Grant Holmes, '19 and Mr. J. A. Harrison, '21 were elected. The duties of the former are relative to athletics, while those of the latter concern social affairs.

Prof. Spencer was elected Hon. President of the Society.

FAIR PLAY.

It is difficult for us to adjust ourselves to the rapid changes of the last five years. The war has left the entire world in a state of unrest and commotion. One looks upon the activities of everyday life from an entirely different standpoint. What was possible and satisfactory five years ago, may not be possible or satisfactory today.

Many of us that are back this year recall the lively debates of Arts and Science that were held weekly back in '14 and '15. Some, no doubt, thinking of those meetings, have endeavored to revive the weekly afternoon meetings of Arts and Science judged by a resolution passed at the first meeting this year. The idea is good. But it is pre-war. It does not fit into our present state of organization. No debates can be held at 5.30 p.m. and if they are held from 5 to 6 as formally, thirty per cent. of the student body will be unable to attend. Such is a condition that must be looked into very carefully. The Arts and Science Students Society is for all the members of these respective faculties of both sexes. It is not for those who have the good fortune to have a free hour from 4.30 p.m. on certain afternoons. It is for all. It must hold its meetings at an hour which conflicts with no college class. Furthermore, it must be held at a centre that is within fairly easy reach of the majority of students. The walk from Studley to the Dormitories and Pine Hill is by no means a short one. There may be some who are willing to sacrifice their supper for the cause of debating but unfortunately they are in the minority.

Last year the meetings were largely attended, in fact, more so than any that the writer can recall in 1915. The co-eds turned out splendidly and the general discussion was at times most spirited. The writer is not opposed to weekly meetings nor yet to afternoon meetings which will permit all students to attend. But it is not the spirit of Dalhousie to have debates for the select few. And such is bound to be the case if afternoon meetings are held under existing conditions. It is the younger men we want and we can not get them to turn out to hear the tail end of a debate. Let the debates be held at 7.30 in the Munro Room and give every student a chance to be there. No one will be disappointed with the results. It is up to every student to back up the executive of Arts and Science. But the executive can hope for little support if the meetings are held at an hour when a large number of students have classes. There must be splendid material at Dalhousie this year. Do not let us risk losing any opportunity of developing it to the fullest extent.

"Referring to an item headed "Our Doctors" in the last issue, a member—a business man—sends in the following:

"As I understand it, the University in conferring an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws does so in the belief that it is bestowing a mark of appreciation upon the recipient as a scholar of merit, or, whether a scholar (in the university sense) or not, in recognition of his services to education, if these have been marked. With the first reason, I am in entire agreement—with the second, I am not. In my view, an honorary degree should only be given to mark scholarly attainments. However, Dalhousie is not a very big offender because she has not granted more than fifty honorary degrees in the 101 years of her history, and it is probable that ninety per cent. of these degrees could be justified on the first ground. I do think, however, that Dalhousie should attune itself to the new order of things and give a course capped with a degree, Bachelor of Commerce, as you suggest. Such a course properly designed would be of marked assistance to a business man in after life. The answer probably is that Dalhousie has not the money to do this. While that is a difficulty, it is not an insurmountable one. Perhaps the money would be forthcoming if the University made the first move. What do you think?"

MEETING OF THE D. A. A. C.

A meeting of the Dalhousie Amateur Athletic Club was held on the evening of the 9th in the Munroe Room.

The chief announcement made was that of Mr. D. W. Hoare who stated that an inter-faculty football league had been started and the first game would be between a team from Pharmacy-Law and one from Arts and Science and Engineering. Each team was scheduled to play two games.

Announcement was also made of the death of the father of our football captain, Mr. Haslam, and a message of condolence was wired to his home.

The attendance at the meeting was certainly record breaking. When the writer arrived the meeting had already been called to order. To put it mildly the atmospheric conditions foreboded a storm.

About half way through the meeting Mr. Power arose and began an oration. Instantly there were cries of "sit down" and stamping of many feet on the floor. When Mr. Power finally did sit down, which he only did after having a somewhat heated discussion with Mr. Laing, the President of the D.A.A.C., Mr. Goode, arose and moved a hoist of Mr. Power's resolution until next spring. Several members sprang to their feet and much shouting and confusion resulted. In fact it would have appeared to a stranger that he had accidentally blundered in upon a debate regarding the future welfare of the country. Parliamentary outbursts occurred though in some cases the speakers tried to use such big words they could not pronounce them. For the space of about a quarter of an hour Messrs. Goode and Lawley seemed to have some sort of a monopoly of the floor space. They talked incessantly, sometimes both at once, during which episodes each tried to talk louder than the other. There were motions, amendments, more amendments and still more amendments. Then somebody would withdraw his amendment to the amendment to the amendment and the whole process would be gone over again. The chief object in the meeting as far as could be seen was for everyone to disagree with everyone else. It almost looked like an all-night session when the happy thought of moving an adjournment occurred to someone. We have attended our last D.A.A.C. meeting. Never again. When we want to hear parliamentary oratory we will go down to the house of assembly, where we can hear it without the agony of having the speakers mispronounce the King's English and break all the rules of Procedure that were ever invented or are likely to be.

THE DALHOUSIE CENTENARY CELEBRATION.

On the days of September 11th, 12th and 13th Dalhousie University celebrated in fitting style the 100th anniversary of its existence. For weeks before anyone who had been connected with the celebration preparations was working hard, and by the time the day of opening dawned everything was in readiness.

The 11th dawned with lowering skies and a drizzling rain, but the multitude of visitors who thronged the University buildings did not mind the atmospheric conditions in the least. Among the first to register was Dr. David Allison, of Class 1852, the oldest living graduate of the College. All morning was occupied with registration and in the afternoon a special convocation took place at which 26 honorary degrees of L.L.D., were conferred. The evening was given up to a dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed by all those present.

The morning of the 12th was similar to that of the 11th; slight showers and fog making the weather anything but pleasant. Some people have accused Dalhousie of "lack of College Spirit." The accusation was most certainly refuted when on Friday morning, amidst the drizzle of rain over 1500 students and graduates assembled at the Parade to participate in the procession. The air resounded with College yells; old men forgot their age and with heads held high, and swinging along Barrington Street to the tune of the band that preceded the procession they chanted Dalhousie songs with as much enthusiasm as did the more youthful members of the gathering. The classes marched in the order of years, with the freshmen first, the sophomores next and then the juniors, seniors, and the graduated classes until the last class represented was reached and then came a huge replica of the original Dalhousie Building borne on a truck, and supported on either side by the original cornerstones. When the Studley grounds were reached Dr. Allison dedicated the stones to the undergraduates of the University and Mr. A. B. Campbell made a suitable reply on behalf of the Student body. The afternoon was occupied by Amateur theatricals put on very creditably by the students and music rendered by the local talent of the city. In the evening a huge smoker and dance concluded the days events.

Saturday the weather was more propitious. The chief event on the program for the day was the Regatta on the Northwest Arm. A stiff breeze had whipped the surface of the water into little short, choppy wavelets by afternoon, but this did not interfere with events scheduled. Motorboats, yachts, boats and canoes dotted the surface, the gay colored sunshades and dresses of the feminine portion of the gathering forming a charming picture against the fresh green of the hills that towered upward on the Western slopes of the Arm.

Like all good things the day at last came to an end, and the guests reluctantly took their departures, though each and every one of them left with a sense of regret and a tender spot in his or her memory for their "little old College by the Sea."

Prof. S-p-c-r to the Engineers. "I want you always to keep in touch with the Ladies Residence."

FOOTBALL.

For the first time since 1914, Dalhousie celebrated Thanksgiving Day in the traditional way, that is, by twice defeating the Wanderers in Rugby. The work of Coach Campbell received its complete justification and the results assure us that the university will have just cause to be proud of her football teams this year.

The Junior game began at half past two sharp. The Wanderers kicked off with the sun and wind in their favor. Dal. was ragged at first and the Red and Black crossed their line for a try in about ten minutes. The touch was converted. There was no further scoring in this half. The last period told a different story. Aided by their excellent condition, Dal rushed the Wanderers off their feet and shoved over two tries, neither of which was converted. The final score was Dal 6, Wanderers 5. The Wanderers protested the playing of Gee Ahern on grounds of professionalism.

The Senior game was not so close. The Gold and Black tore great holes in the Wanderers' line and kept the ball in the opponents' end of the field a great part of the time. The scrim worked nicely, the halves being "well fed" but perhaps not always making the wisest play. The heady work of Porter and his timely kicking frequently converted a seeming Wanderer gain into one for Dal. Baxendale at quarter and Fluck at half both played well, the latter advancing the ball to within striking distance of the Red and Black line on many occasions. For the Wanderers Don Campbell and Sleep James fought hard against their former friends but to no avail. Once more the superior condition of the Dal. men was evident and good use was made of it.

Capt. Joe White, R.A.F., scored two of the tries for Dal. while Fred Jones, the speedy flying quarter scored the other. Fluck converted one of these tries prettily from a difficult angle. The final score was 11-0.

However, the greatest credit for the victory belongs to the forwards who were at all times on the ball and whose work at heeling was good to see.

The rooters club was also in evidence ably led by Mr. Scott.

MORE FOOTBALL.

On Saturday Dal and Wanderers divided the bill, the former winning the Junior game 3-0, and the latter the Senior game, 9-5.

The first game was an evenly divided affair, the Wanderers having the better of the territory in the first half, while the reverse was true in the last half. MacDonald scored the try for Dal on a high punt which was dropped by the Wanderers' full back.

The Seniors presented a weakened team to the Red and Blacks, no graduate being played in order to give this team, which is to play St. F-X on Thursday, a practice game. However, they held their own and were only defeated after a hard tussle. This time it was the half line which shone while the weakened scrum had a hard session against the heavier Wanderer pack. The kicking of Porter and M. Haslam for Dal and Freddie Palmer for the Wanderers featured the game.

Capt. Brent and Mont Haslam returned to the game and gave an excellent account of themselves, receiving a warm welcome.

NOTES.

Lee Fluck had a case of blood poisoning in the hand but is recovering gradually. No fears are felt for his ultimate recovery.

Mont. Haslam, the young locomotive, should be an expert golfer. His "tee" forming qualities are excellent.

The "old man" makes some tough judge. Why not get into the game Henry, old scout, you're only young once.

Jim Lawley is right after the coin. Atta boy, Jim, don't let them slip one over on you.

H. Wickwire had the misfortune to secure a badly sprained wrist on Saturday.

Art. Goode is laid up in the V. G. as the result of injuries sustained on Thanksgiving Day.

Lucinda was testing the devotion of Erastus: "S'pose it is night and we are in a deep black woods. There come a bo'er constricter a-wiggling through the grass and a wildcat aboundin' through the bushes, an' a lion roarin' an' making for us a mile a minute. What are we a-gonna do?"

Erastus: "There ain't gonna to be no we."
