

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

HUGH MARTIN.—A distinguished London journalist, who visited Canada with other representatives of the British press last fall. Mr. Martin is well-known for his articles in the London Daily News. During recent years he has been press correspondent in some of the stormiest centres, from which he wrote at once with unflinching courage and high descriptive power.

E. O. FEWSTER.—A medical practitioner in Vancouver, B. C. Founder and President of the Vancouver Poetry Club. Dr. Fewster has published verse that has been highly commended, and much more is expected from him by good critics.

ADAM SHORTT.—Head of the Public Archives of Canada. Formerly Professor of Economics at Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario. Afterwards Head of the Civil Service Commission.

ARTHUR RUSSELL JEWITT.—Winner of the First Prize for English essay in the Dennis Prize Competition of 1924. Still an undergraduate at Dalhousie University.

R. WALKER SCOTT.—Associate-Professor of French, King's College. Professor Scott travelled widely some years ago in southern Europe, and the extracts from his journal written in Greece have the interest that belongs to the work of an eye-witness in troubled times.

HERBERT HEATON.—Head of the Economics Department, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario. Formerly Lecturer in Economics, University of Adelaide, South Australia.

LOUISE MOREY BOWMAN.—Of Montreal. A Canadian poetess, who has contributed much verse to Canadian and American magazines. She has published also two volumes of poems, entitled Moonlight and Common Day and Dream Tapestries which have won high praise.

THE HON. BENJAMIN RUSSELL.—Formerly Justice of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia. Retired recently from judicial duty. In the article here published he has brought together some recollections of his early days, when he reported law cases tried before judges of the bench to which he was afterwards appointed.

W. T. HERRIDGE.—Formerly Minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Ottawa. An ex-Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Dr. Herridge is author of many articles and essays in literary criticism.

FRED LANDON.—Associate-Professor of History, and in charge of libraries, University of Western Ontario, London, Ont. President 1918-20 of the London and Middlesex Historical Society.
