

JUDITH CAESAR has taught in universities in various countries, most recently at King Saud University in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

DAVID CURTIS is an Associate Professor of English at Sacred Heart University in Fairfield, Connecticut.

PHILIP FLYNN is an Associate Professor of English Literature at the University of Delaware. He is the author of Francis Jeffrey (1978) and editor of the forthcoming Enlightened Scotland. Earlier essays by him, on Scottish aesthetics and Scottish moral psychology, have appeared in the Dalhousie Review.

NIGEL GIBSON is completing a Ph.D. in Political Science at Columbia University.

FREDERICK M. HOLMES is an Assistant Professor of English at Lakehead University in Thunder Bay. His work has been published in Modern Fiction Studies, English Studies in Canada, ARIEL, and The Journal of Narrative Technique.

KONSTANTIN KOLENDA is Carolyn and Fred McManis, Professor of Philosophy at Rice University in Houston, Texas.

J. PATRICK LEWIS has published poetry and short stories in many journals. He is the author of two children's books, The Tsar & the Amazing Cow and a poetry collection, A Hippopotamusn't.

SITAKANTA MAHAPATRA is a senior civil administrator in India, in charge of tribal affairs. His book of poems, Sabdara Akash received the award of the Indian National Academy of Letters in 1974.

KENNETH MCROBBIE lives in Winnipeg. He devotes much of his life to translating contemporary Hungarian verse, and recently published a broadsheet of ten poems, Just Before Free Trade.

ADRIAN SMITH is Senior Lecturer at La Sainte Union College of Higher Education in Southampton, England, having formerly taught at the University of Kent and the Royal Military College, Sandhurst. He is presently working on a book on the reorganization of the British Ministry of Defence in the 1980s.

DANIEL JAMES SUNDAHL is an Associate Professor of English at Hillsdale College, Michigan. His articles and poems have appeared in a number of periodicals including The Fiddlehead, The University of Windsor Review, New Letters and Writers'Forum.

FRANZ A.J. SZABO is an Associate Professor of History at Carleton University in Ottawa and is the author of several articles on Habsburg enlightened absolutism. He is completing a study on the Habsburg Chancellor, Prince W.A. Kaunitz, and also a bibliographical guide to English-language literature on the Habsburg monarchy.

BARBARA UNGER-SAKANO is a poet and a writer of fiction, who lives in Suffern, New York, where she teaches English at Rockland Community College.

ROBIN VAN HECK is a freelance editor and indexer living in Vancouver, B.C. She is an editorial assistant for The Canadian Journal of Education, literary/children's book review editor for the BCLA Reporter, and a member of the Room of One's Own editorial collective.

ALAN R. WILSON was born in New Brunswick, educated at the universities of New Brunswick, Victoria and British Columbia, and now lives in Victoria, B.C. Counting to 100, from which the poems in this issue are taken, was a finalist in the CBC literary competition. Other sequences have been published by The Malahat Review, The Antigoniish Review, Prairie Fire and Canadian Literature.

JANET WINN lectures in philosophy at the State University of New York at New Paltz and at Dutchess County College. She is the author of The Open Mind and Sociology (Peter Lang, 1988), two novels and a number of short stories.