

JOHN BAXTER is an Associate Professor of English at Dalhousie, and the author of Shakespeare's Poetic Styles: Verse Into Drama. With Patrick Atherton, he is in the process of editing a volume of George Whalley's work on Aristotle, which will include Whalley's translation of the Poetics.

ELIZABETH BREWSTER's thirteenth book of poems, Spring Again, will be published in the Spring of 1990. She has also published two novels and three volumes of short stories. The most recent of her stories to appear in the Dalhousie Review was "Visitations" (Vol. 65, no. 4).

ROGER BURFORD MASON did his doctoral research on poetry and the private presses. He was the founder, editor and publisher of Albion, the British journal of printing and publishing history which ran from 1977 until 1988. Since 1988 he has lived in Toronto, working as a freelance writer and editor. He is a partner in Wind of Change, a private press which publishes fine, limited edition, books.

JEANETTE BURNEY lives in California and has published poetry in a wide range of journals including Shenandoah, Poetry Australia, and The Antigianish Review.

PAUL DELANY is Professor of English at Simon Fraser University. He is the author of D.H. Lawrence's Nightmare: the Writer and His Circle in the Years of the Great War, and of The Neo-Pagans: Rupert Brooke and the Ordeal of Youth.

BARRY DEMPSTER lives in Toronto, Ontario. His latest books are a collection of short stories called Writing Home and a third volume of poetry, Positions to Pray In. "Henry VIIIth" is from a forthcoming book, The Unavoidable Man, to be published by Quarry Press in 1990.

ALEX FANCY is Professor of French at Mount Allison University in Sackville, New Brunswick.

lala heine-koehn was born in Poland, now lives in Victoria, B.C., and is involved in the customs and traditions of Greek folklore. Poems by her appeared in the Dalhousie Review, Vol. 66, no. 4.

R. DOUGLAS MACDONALD is Professor of English at Brock University. He has published essays on such authors as Susanna Moodie, Frederick Philip Grove, Stephen Leacock, Ethel Wilson, Robertson Davies, Malcolm Lowry, Northrop Frye, Dennis Lee and T.C. Haliburton in Canadian Literature, Dalhousie Review, Mosaic,

Studies in Canadian Literature, and Canadian Review of American Studies. He is presently working on Hawthorne as humorist.

R. NIKOLAS MACIOCI lives in Columbus, Ohio. In 1987, he won the National Writers' Union Poetry Competition, and, in 1989, The Baudelaire Award, sponsored by The World Order of Narrative and Formalist Poets.

ALEXANDRA PETT teaches in the English Department at Mount Royal College in Calgary. She has published articles on Virginia Woolf, Edith Wharton, Ellen Glasgow, Ethel Wilson and Frederick Philip Grove. Currently, she is at work on a book-length study of Canadian autobiographical writers.

PETER SANGER lives in Truro, Nova Scotia, and has been poetry editor of The Antigonish Review since 1985. He has published articles on David Jones, Geoffrey Hill, Emily Carr, Borduas and Douglas Lochhead. He is the author of The American Reel (1983), a book of poems, and Sea Run: Notes on John Thompson's Still-Jack (1986).

ANDREW SINCLAIR lives in British Columbia and is writing an M.A. thesis on Wallace Stevens, crewing a charter sailboat and working in the film industry as a grip/electrician. In two summers of tree-planting in northern B.C., he planted close to 100,000 trees.

LEONARD W. SUGDEN is a professeur agrégé in French Studies at Concordia University in Montreal. He has published a number of articles on Quebec literature. His translation of LaRoque's novel, Masks, is to be published early in 1990 by Québec/Amérique of Montreal.

ANGUS TAYLOR grew up in Britain and Canada, and holds a Ph.D. from York University. Currently, he is teaching part-time at the University of Victoria and at Capilano College.

BOBBIE RAE WILSON lives in Toronto. She has worked in business, real estate, and as a teacher. Now she raises her daughter, does freelance reviewing and is writing a biography. Her story, "The Jackpine," appeared in The Dinosaur Review 9.

MAURICE YACOWAR is Dean of Academic Affairs at Emily Carr College of Art and Design in Vancouver. His publications include No Use Shutting the Door (poems), Hitchcock's British Films, Tennessee Williams and Film, I Found It at the Movies, Loser Take All: the Comic Art of Woody Allen, and Method in Madness: the Comic Art of Mel Brooks. He is currently working on a book on Paul Morrissey for Cambridge University Press.