

DAVID C. BELLUSCI
ART GALLERY

Monster spider at the gallery.
A Bourgeois sculpture, facing the cathedral. I wonder if she waits for pious Church-goers, a swift 8-legged attack, believers to be swallowed. Female of this species watches the proper Sunday-dressed get up from their knees, spring through the oak doors.
Easy targets. Another mother looks down, holding her baby tight.
Even her boy is frightened by the deadly monstrosity hoping his mother will step on it.