

Contributors

Connor Adsett

Connor Adsett is graduating this fall with an honours in English, a minor in History, and a certificate in Art History. He is interested in 20th century American History.

Ronald Blanchard

Ronald Blanchard is going into the fourth year of his combined Honours in History and International Development Studies. His academic interests lie in colonialism in Africa and South Asia, the history of development, and the global history of slavery.

Lucy Boyd

Lucy Boyd is in her third year at the University of King's College and Dalhousie, studying Early Modern Studies and History. She is particularly interested in the historical intersections between gender and religion, and the social and personal impacts of convents.

Anna Gaudet

Anna Gaudet is a third-year student completing a Combined Honours degree in ESS (Environment, Society, and Sustainability) and History, with a minor in Early Modern Studies.

Lane Harrison

Lane Harrison is a third-year Journalism student at the University of King's College and Editor-in-Chief at the Dalhousie Gazette. He is most interested in film history and the history of journalism.

Gideon Morton

Gideon Morton is in my fourth year of a History major, with a HOST minor. He is interested in the history of radical politics and post-colonial history, as well as the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

Graham O'Brien

Graham O'Brien is in his final year at King's and Dal where he took a Combined Honours in Early Modern Studies and Philosophy, with a minor in Contemporary Studies. While his interests are largely in the history of philosophy, he particularly likes the early modern period and, like so many others, WWII (and its impacts on post-war philosophy).

Amy M. Paleczny

Amy Paleczny is currently in her second year at Dalhousie University. She is pursuing a Bachelor of Arts with a major in History and a minor in Political Science.

Alec Rembowski

Alec Rembowski is a fourth-year student, working towards his BA with Honours in History and Political Science. The focus of his studies is Russian and African history with an interest in military history.

Daniel Kirtley Simpkin

Daniel Simpkin has just completed his fourth year at Dalhousie where he is working towards an Undergraduate degree in History with a minor in Political Science. His favourite areas of study are 1960s American sociopolitical culture, and North American mass-incarceration.

Francesca Sivilotti

Francesca Sivilotti is a second-year student studying Law, Justice & Society and Economics. She enjoys learning about the history of law in Canada as well as the history of powerful ideas like capitalism on the global stage.

Jamieson Urquhart

Jamieson Urquhart is in his second year of a double major in History and Sustainability. His favourite facets of history to study are moments of cultural pluralism and identity display.

Cover Illustration: Power to the People, an Early Soviet Propaganda Poster, from a collection of soviet propaganda posters by Alex Ward.¹

Cover Design: Isabel Brechin

¹ Alex Ward, Power To The People. Jerusalem, Israel: The Israel Museum, 2007.